ANGLO-AMERICAN WAR CONFERENCE EVENT OF HIGHEST IMPORTANCE

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The Anglo-American war conference yesterday, in Downing street, is treated by this morning's newspapers as an event of highest importance.

While Premier Lloyd George's statement on the needs of the allies receives attention, the point also made that it is necessary for the allies to remember that the United States is not in the war solely or mainly for their benefit. Thus, The Post says:

"Americans know as well as we that they are in the war to protect themselves from a danger which seriously menaced them. They are business men over here strictly on business."

"The United States did not join the belligerents to save France or help Great Britain," says the Daily Express. "She is fighting the Germans of Kaiser William for exactly the same reason that she fought the England of Lord North. Her individual and national freedom is at stake.

The Daily News on the other hand dwells on the advent of the United States as a "bulwark of confidence" for the allies and says it has changed the character of the war and placed the issue beyond doubt. Following out this view, it says that "if in the closing phases of the war she is the commanding figure, we shall have no envy and no regrets," and contends that this is so chiefly because America's entry is a spiritual fact looking to the eventual establishment of "a new sort of peace—a peace founded upon the commonwealth of the world."

Hope is expressed by this journal that Americans will not become sentimental or allow themselves to be influenced by humanitarian considerations in waging war, as "war is most cruel when most prolonged, and the only policy is that of firmness. Hitherto, on our side, there has been too much parrying and too little striking."

Sour Grapes

We all know the fable of the fox who, while looking about, saw the lovely grapes, but on trying his utmost to get them, he failed. He then walked off saying: "I don't want them anyway, they are sour grapes."

When you are down-town getting your winter supply and have looked around and seen about what you want, but cannot get it because it is too high, don't go home saying "Sour Grapes," but just call it Chalfoux's. I am sure you will find what you want, and it will not be so high that you cannot get it.

Fern A. Richardson, Lowell High School Commercial Dept.

I wish to thank the citizens of Lowell for their general expression of confidence in my endeavor to serve them as Commissioner of Streets and Highways, and if elected, I trust that my future service will be equally satisfactory to the people of Lowell.

RED TRIANGLE CAMPAIGN

Asked for $200,000 Already Subscribed $170,000
Still $30,000 to Make Good

Letter of the Campaign Manager to Lowell People and Organizations Including Our 23 Neighboring Towns.

We CANNOT GIVE LESS than we are asked to raise for the boys. (They are looking to us at home, as expectantly as we are looking to them "over there.")

Lowell must "carry on" till the job is done—till the $200,000 asked is raised—till we go over the top! YOU who have not subscribed, the firms, corporations and all, who are still on the list, send yours to 119 Merrimack street so that I can cross you off the list, and put you on the right list. The boys are "carrying on." WE MUST "carry on" till we've completed our task.

Pledges payable on or before the 1st of April will be satisfactory, and we hope to "carry on" this work of the Red Triangle with this $200,000 till October 1st, but surely till July 1st. (We are not coming so soon again.) Pledge now to "carry on" for the coming year. It makes it easier for all.

Make sure that Lowell goes over the top this week, or latest by December 1st.

A great many who have realized and known what this work for the boys means, means for the present and future, and for the U. S. A., and for humanity have made a SECOND PLEDGE PAYABLE THE 1st OF APRIL. I ask everybody now to take their part also, not to allow others to do it all.

Yours faithfully, OTTO HOCKMEYER, Campaign Manager.

P. S.—I am on the job all the time till the boys come home, but very much on the job at 119 Merrimack street till December 1st, 1917.

N. B.—We have had wonderful, general and generous support. This work is National, and more than National. There are no lines drawn "over there" and there should be no lines drawn here. I am subscribing $1000 to the Knights of Columbus, and ask all to appreciate the work they are doing.

GREAT BRITISH VICTORY FAMOUS HINDENBURG LINE BROKEN

British Spring Surprise on Germans in Northern France, Attacking on Front of Over 30 Miles and Breaking the Hindenburg Line to Depth of Five Miles — Important Captures — Fighting Continues—Berlin Admits Successes for British Forces

Field Marshal Haig has sprung a surprise on the Germans in northern France, attacking suddenly on a front of more than 30 miles and breaking the famous Hindenburg line to a maximum depth of nearly five miles. His troops are still fighting their way forward in the most spectacular offensive of the war on the western front since the trench lines were established.

Blow Struck Without Warning

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

When Capt. John S. Halsey first consulted me, he said: "For at least twelve years I have been growing deaf. I am troubled with the most annoying noises in my head. They were like the hissing of escaping steam. The noises became so bad that I could not understand what was said to me. As you see, I am now very deaf, and when the weather is damp and cloudy, I am unable to hear at all. On a dry day I can just hear my watch tick when I place it right up against my ear. I cannot hear anything that is said by the performers on the stage in a theatre. My nostrils have been clogged and I have been annoyed by dropping in my throat that keeps me constantly having to clear it out."

Since treating Capt. Halsey, he reports that the noises have left his head and that he can hear as well as he ever could. His nostrils are open and free and the dropping in his throat is gone. He says his wife's hearing is perfect and he has been hearing his hearing with her and she finds he can hear as well as she can. He further says that he is well known around the harbor of New York, where he has sailed the schooner W. H. BARNES, and he wants everyone to know how fairly he was treated by Dr. McCoy and how small the charge was for restoring his hearing and freeing him of clogged nostrils and dropping in his throat.

Capt. Halsey had been treated for home, in Maurer, New Jersey.

The Cure of Capt. Halsey of Deafness, Head Noises, Nostrils Clogged, Drooping in the Throat

means that a new treatment for Catarrh and Catarrhal Deafness has been developed by Dr. McCoy.

Capt. Bealey had been treated for years by ordinary specialists without obtaining a cure. Dr. McCoy's method of treatment corrected his trouble.

It is to introduce a treatment founded on the most recent discoveries as to correcting the results of catarrhal disease that Dr. McCoy is establishing an office in Lowell, offers for a period of two weeks his services free to all those suffering from any form of catarrhal troubles. Bear in mind, there will not be a single penny accepted for examination, advice or treatment for any catarrhal disease during this period.

If you suffer with clogged nostrils, discharging nostrils, are going deaf, or have head noises, or have a drooping throat, if you have discharging ears, I will be pleased to have you visit my office. It will cost you nothing for an examination and advice.

numbers smashed their way through the formidable German wire entanglements, plunging a road for the infantry, which swarmed irresistibly forward.

Important Captures

Village after village fell into British hands as Haig's troops pressed on, until at Marconing and at Anneux in the Bapaume-Cambrai road, they were but three and three-quarters miles from Cambrai, the German base and important railway junction, which apparently is the British objective.

Many Prisoners Taken

Several thousand prisoners have been taken by the British as well as large quantities of war material. The attack was carried out in unfavorable atmospheric conditions and the weather has since grown stormy.

Berlin Admits Advance

Berlin admits important advances by the British, conceding the capture of Marconing and Anneux in the field of Haig's thrust, but says the attackers were checked after ground had been gained.

No Change on Italian Front

Today's German official statement reports no change on the Italian front. Indicating that the Italians are still holding firmly their line on the Piave and westward to the Trentino.

American Troops Needed

American troops and American ships are needed by the allies, Premier Lloyd George informed the American mission now in England at the first meeting of the Anglo-American war council. An early arrival of troops is imperative for the continued welfare of the allied cause and the British prime minister is anxious to know how soon the first million American soldiers can be expected in France. Russia's collapse and the Teutonic success in Italy, Premier Lloyd George declared, made it most imperative that before that the United States should send as many troops as possible across the Atlantic as early as possible.

War to Victory, Says Clemenceau

Pledging "nothing but war" as his policy, Georges Clemenceau, has received the confidence of the French chamber of deputies in himself and his cabinet by a vote of 418 to 65.

The new premier pledged his administration to a vigorous prosecution of the war and declared he would not agree to permit Germany to enter the peace negotiations because Germany's signature cannot be trusted.

Italians Repulse Attacks

Violent Austro-German attacks are being thrown against the Italians, but the Italians have repulsed all efforts successfully. The position is one of the most natural strongholds protecting the whole of western Venetia behind the Piave river and the invaders are making strenuous efforts to gain it.

Invaders Driven Back

Italian offensive operations east of Asiago continue and the invaders have been driven from several positions with the loss of more than 200 prisoners. No further attempts have been made by the Austro-Germans to cross the Piave after disastrous results attending the efforts of last week.

Declare Russia Out of War

The Russian Maximalist government has declared Russia out of the war, according to information from German and Scandinavian sources. A despatch to Copenhagen from Berlin says that the belief is held in the German capital that the prospects for a "peace of reconciliation" are far better than previously. Neutral capitals have no official reports, nor is there word from Petrograd that the Bolsheviks have decided to suspend military activities.

Ukraine Declares Independence

The workmen and soldiers' congress is facing a split into Bolshevik and anti-Bolshevik organizations. The district of the Ukraine, in southwestern Russia, has declared its independence and 360,000 Ukrainians have been withdrawn from the fighting front which may seriously impair the effectiveness of the Russian army.

British Report of Victory

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The Hindenburg line has been broken to a depth of four to five miles, the war office announces.

British troops stormed the first system of the Hindenburg line defenses on the whole front between St. Quentin and the Scarpe river, a distance of 32 miles.

The British infantry and tanks pressed on and captured the second system of defenses, over a mile beyond.

The attack was begun yesterday by the third army. There was no artillery preparation and the Germans were taken completely by surprise.

The second system of German defenses captured by the British is known as the Hindenburg support line. The British captured Benavix, Lameau wood, La Vacquerie, the defenses known as Welsh ridge, and Ribecourt village. Their operations are continuing.

Several thousand prisoners have been taken by the British through Couillet wood.

Lieut. Gen. Sir Julian Byng is in command of the attacking army.

The whole German line west of the Canal du Nord to the Bapaume-Cambrai road has been captured.

The towns of Havrincourt, Marconing, Chancourt and Anneux and Neuf Wood have been captured by the British.

A large number of tanks moved forward in advance of the infantry when the attack was opened and broke through successive belts of German wire defenses which were of great depth and strength.

MAYOR O'DONNELL IS A GOOD LOSER

Relative to the result of the primary election held in this city yesterday, Mayor O'Donnell this morning gave out the following statement:

"The voters of Lowell have made their choice, and I most cheerfully abide by their decision. I congratulate the winners, Dr. Mignault and Mr. Thompson, upon their success, and Mr. Gilbride upon the splendid vote received by him on the occasion of his first attempt in a municipal contest. Though unsuccessful, he may feel proud of the excellent showing made by him. I sincerely thank all my friends for their support of my candidacy, not only at this time, but in the past. I feel that I have been usually honored by my fellow-citizens in being accorded four years as mayor of Lowell, and the result of the primaries finds me without regrets or doubts, and I ask my friends to accept the result as I have accepted it and make no criticisms."

The very flattering vote accorded Mr. Gilbride was due undoubtedly to his aggressive campaign. He had served as representative from the district comprising wards 4 and 6, and had later served as deputy internal collector, but there were few who believed that he would poll so magnificent a

Nominated: For School Board—O'Brien, 3792; Walsh, 3759; Charbonneau, 3030; Thompson, 2841.

After a campaign that did not arouse great excitement or great enthusiasm, the nominations in Lowell yesterday brought out only a comparatively light vote and placed on the ballot for the city election, Dec. 11, the names of Dr. Rodrigue Mignault and Perry D. Thompson, as candidates for mayor; Commissioner Charles J. Morse, Commissioner James E. Donnelly, Jas. P. Miskella and former Commissioner Newell F. Putnam, as candidates for aldermen; Michael P. O'Brien, Richard Bradbrook, Walsh, Henry V. Charbonneau and Dr. W. B. Thompson as candidates for the school board.

There were a great many slates for the mayoralty candidates and what might be termed a majority of them seemed to favor O'Donnell and Mignault. A great many who were not O'Donnell men thought the mayor would be nominated, but he didn't do better than fourth place. Few slates had the names of the winners, Mignault and Thompson, and the latter had a narrow escape from defeat at the hands of John J. Gilbride, the youngest candidate in the race. In fact Mr. Gilbride was hailed as the winner for a time, but that was due to a mistake made by one of the announcers.

Friends of the young candidate, jubilant over his success and their victory as a whole, carried the glad tidings to him and the short-term candidate was Johnnie-on-the-spot with a great many congratulations. He extended his thanks to his many supporters. But in the middle of the speech the information was handed out that a mistake had been discovered at city hall and that Mr. Thompson and not Mr. Gilbride was nominated. The fact remains, however, that Thompson leads Gilbride by only 38 votes, and it was stated today that Mr. Gilbride would petition for a recount.

The very flattering vote accorded Mr. Gilbride was due undoubtedly to his aggressive campaign. He had served as representative from the district comprising wards 4 and 6, and had later served as deputy internal collector, but there were few who believed that he would poll so magnificent a vote, and he certainly has something very encouraging to look forward to. For Commissioner Charles J. Morse came out high man with 4045 votes and he was followed by Commissioner Donnelly, who received 3604 votes. Jas. P. Miskella was third man on the list with 2952 votes, while Newell F. Putnam followed closely with 2930 votes. Mr. Morse's stronghold was in wards 3, 6, 7 and 9, while Mr. Donnelly developed considerable strength in wards 4, 7 and 8.

For school committee there was a lively contest on, which ended with Mr. O'Brien high man, has vote being 3792, while Mr. Walsh was a close second with 3759 votes.

PUBLIC HEALTH PROBLEM

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Nov. 20.—City health officers from a large number of Massachusetts cities expressed the opinion today before the special legislative commission on health insurance, that the general problem of public health conservation is now being efficiently administered under existing methods. It was generally agreed that more money which to extend the present means of caring for school children is the greatest need.

Among the health officers present were: Dr. Samuel Sandler of Fall River, Dr. L. Z. Normandin of New Bedford, Dr. Hugh O. Peterson of Worcester, Dr. Thomas F. Carroll of Lowell, Fred Bates of Lowell, Dr. Bernard W. Carey of Fitchburg, and Dr. A. E. Broughton of Jamaica Plain.

The health officers were invited to appear before the commission to tell to what extent, in their opinion, poverty is the cause of distress, and whether or not proper hospital facilities are obtainable by the poor. The physicians pointed to the facts that the ravages of disease are constantly being lessened and that the proportion of physicians to the population is falling off as indications of the efficiency of the present methods. Food, clothing and shoes, it was represented, are as important as free medicine.

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 21.—At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Bay State Gas company yesterday 2,681,117 shares were voted unanimously for the following directors:

The directors organized by electing these officers:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—All officers and enlisted men and nurses in the army and navy were urged in an address issued today by Secretary McAdoo to apply to the bureau of war risk insurance at Washington for government life insurance before Feb. 13 next.

Failure to apply by that date, he explained, would bar them from the benefits of what he characterized as the greatest measure of protection ever offered to its fighting forces by any nation in the history of the world. Dependents of any man killed before that time, however, will receive insurance payments, regardless of whether applications were made, inasmuch as the government considers all of them insured automatically until then.

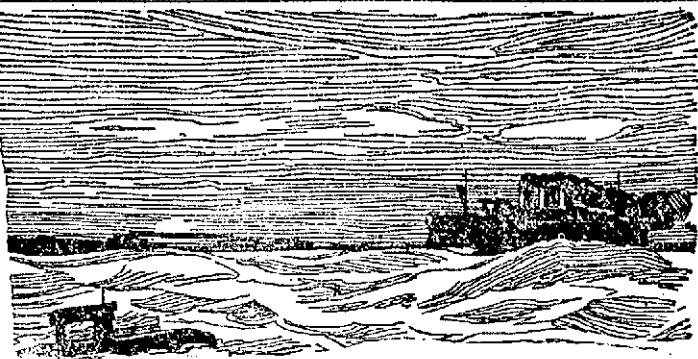

To care for the wife and children of the enlisted man during his service, said Secretary McAdoo, "the war insurance law compels him to contribute up to one-half of his pay for their support. The government on application will add to this an allowance of from $5 to $50 a month, according to the size of the family. Moreover, if the enlisted man will make some further provision himself for a dependent parent, brother, sister, or grandchild, they may be included in the government allowance."

If as a result of injuries or disease contracted in the line of duty, an officer or enlisted man or an army or navy nurse should be disabled, provision is made for compensation of from $50 to $100 a month to him, and should he die, compensation of from $20 to $75 a month will be paid to his wife, his child or his widowed mother.

"Every soldier and sailor and nurse, commissioned and enlisted, and of any age, has the right between now and Feb. 13, 1918, to take out life and total disability insurance up to $10,000 at a very low cost, with the government without medical examination."

This right is purely optional. The soldiers and sailors are not compelled to take insurance but if they desire to exercise the right they must do so before Feb. 13. The cost ranges from 55 cents monthly at the age of 21, to $1.25 monthly at the age of 31, for each $1000 of insurance. This is a small charge of a man's pay—small in proportion to the benefits it may bring. The premiums will be deducted from

Waiting for the Mysterious U-Boat

Our destroyers and scout ships are waiting for the sudden attack or the deadly torpedo—the watch on the Atlantic are on the lookout for the first indication of hidden danger—it's a fight for life. For those leading a quiet life at home it is often the unexpected that happens. It may be that we are mysteriously attacked by pain in our back or limbs.

Backache of any kind is often caused by kidney disorder, which means that the kidneys are not working properly. Poisonous matter and uric acid accumulate within the body in great abundance, overworking the sick kidneys; hence the congestion of blood causes backache in the same manner as a similar congestion in the head causes headache. You become nervous, despondent, sick, feverish, irritable, have spots appearing before the eyes, bags under the lids, and lack ambition to do things.

BE PREPARED!

The latest and most effective means of overcoming this trouble, is to eat sparingly of meat, drink plenty of water between meals and take a single An-n-rie tablet before each meal for a while, or until recovered.

The affair will be held at 2.30 o'clock in front of the main doorway of the building, which presents a good rostrum for the speakers and in addition a picked chorus of men from among the members will sing. It is planned to give the affair the widest publicity possible for there are members among the 48 who have offered their services to the county from all parts of the city. It is the committee's wish that every part of the city be represented.

The members of this committee are: Ferdinand Roussseau, president; William Trotter, secretary; Frank R. Leclair, Joseph L. Lamoureux, Onesime Tremblay and J. A. Fortier, ex-officio.

LOWELL BOY WHO ENLISTED THREE WEEKS AGO DIES OF HEART DISEASE

Adelard Julien of 94 Aiken avenue, this city, who three weeks ago enlisted in the coast artillery corps and was stationed at Fort Warren, died Saturday of heart disease. The young man, who was 27 years old, came here from Winooski, Vt., about a year ago and made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Savard of 94 Aiken avenue, and was employed in the plant of the American Woolen company at Collinsville. Three weeks ago, he successfully passed the physical test and enlisted in the coast artillery corps. Last Saturday, he was expected in this city on a furlough, but a telegram was received to the effect that the young man had passed away. Deceased is survived by his father and mother and 12 brothers and sisters, all of Winooski, Vermont.

FATHER INJURED IN FIST FIGHT WITH SON

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Nov. 21.—Herbert Kennison, a farmer of Fairfax, was in a critical condition last night as a result of injuries which, the police allege, were sustained in a fist fight with his son, Rodney, Sunday night. It is feared the elder Kennison's skull is fractured. Rodney and his younger brother, Vernon, are being held under surveillance, pending an investigation.

SIR EDWARD CARSON CALES LORD NORTHCLIFFE'S ATTACK A SHAM CRISIS

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Sir Edward Carson, in a speech in London yesterday defending the military and naval leaders from recent attacks and characterizing the agitation as "a sham crisis," attacked Lord Northcliffe. He said:

"In the midst of these attacks a great man—a superman, if you like—comes to tell us that, in contrast with America, we are so inefficient that America will have to take over the management of the war. I have a great admiration for Mr. Northcliffe, but I think that it is a great calamity upon his fellow citizens, and I know it is not the view of Americans. I have had the honor of meeting many members of the American mission and they are lost in astonishment and amazement at the organization and the effort put forward by Great Britain. I have searched the official reports, and this great man, so far as I can see, has never made one single suggestion since the war began from his seat in parliament, when he can be criticised. I attended a historic meeting in Downing street yesterday. America has shaken hands with England across the Atlantic. We are in the war together to the end and will see it through."

LOWELL BOYS' CLUB

A meeting of the Lowell Boys' club was held last night at the rooms in Butter street, and the gist of the evening's work was the forming of preliminary plans for the organization of a club drum corps. Maj. Walter R. Joyce, director of the club, is at work on this project and it is planned to model the corps after the high school drum corps.

GUARDS AT DOCKS AND PIERS

On Duty Under Orders to Bar Germans From Water Fronts

Will Be Replaced Shortly at Larger Ports by Soldiers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Private guards went on duty at important docks and piers today on orders of Attorney General Gregory, under President Wilson's proclamation barring Germans from water fronts. They will be replaced shortly at the larger Atlantic ports by soldiers, but in the meantime all pier owners are instructed to supply their own watchmen and not to allow unidentified persons to either enter or leave the wharves.

Department of justice officials said troops would not be used generally as guards. They probably will be employed at Boston, New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Newport News, Norfolk and a few other ports.

A movement of alien enemies from the 100-yard water front barred zones was under way today, supervised by United States marshals, who had instructions to arrest and intern any Germans failing to comply, or those acting suspiciously.

John Lord O'Brien, special assistant to the attorney general in charge of alien enemy supervision, announced that the registration of Germans ordered by the president will be put into effect first in Atlantic seaboard cities, probably next week. Police will have charge of the registration. The enrollment elsewhere probably will be deferred for a week or two.

BRITISH VICTORY

Germany belonging to enemy citizens has now been extended to American citizens. The reports are of such a nature that they can be used as a basis for financial reprisals.

New Russian Foreign Minister

PETROGRAD, Nov. 20.—The foreign office has been taken over by Leon Trotsky, sub-Secretary Neraoff, who has had charge since the arrest of M. Tsvetichenko, formally surrendering control and deputing along with the other employees.

The Volna Narodna says that within a few days Lenin and Trotsky will announce the successful establishment of a workers' and peasants' government, after which it is hoped that foreign governments will enter into official relations through the new foreign minister.

Independence of Ukraine

PETROGRAD, Nov. 20.—The military chief of the district of Kiev and the temporary government of that state are reported to have left their posts. Ukrainian commissaries have been appointed to succeed them and they have confirmed the independence of the Ukraine.

The town of Moscow has been dissolved by the revolutionary war committee. Mayor Roudeneff of Moscow is reported to be in hiding. An armored train bound for Petrograd has been captured by detachments of soldiers and returned to Moscow.

Opposition to Bolsheviki

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 21.—Reports brought by the latest travelers to reach Tornea from Petrograd indicate that a revolution of feeling is setting in against the Bolsheviki.

Regiments of soldiers have paraded the streets of the Russian capital bearing banners with inscriptions such as: "We want no separate peace!" "Down with the dictatorship of the proletariat!" "Down with the dictatorship of the proletariat!"

The central committee of the anti-Bolshevik socialist coalition has passed a resolution demanding liberty of the press, the dismissal of the Red Guard, and the immediate cessation of fratricidal war. Maxim Gorky's paper, and the Volna Narodna also demand that the Red Guard be disbanded.

American Minister Morris learns from a competent source that the food supply in Petrograd is ominously short and that the bread ration is now three-quarters of a Russian pound for two days.

Nearly one-third of the members of the executive committee formed by the Maximalists at the outbreak of the revolution have resigned and it is reported that the remainder have conferred dictatorial law-making powers on Nikolai Lenin, who is now issuing decrees altering the fundamental laws.

Branch Threatened

PETROGRAD, Nov. 20.—A branch in the workers and soldiers' organizations throughout the country is threatened through the existence of two central committees, each claiming authority as the duly constituted body and denying the rights of the other. The new central committee appointed by the recent congress of workmen's and soldiers' delegates and which gave birth to the present permanent regime assumed to supersede another similar organization which dates back to the months immediately following the March revolution. These bodies are currently referred to as the first and second central committees.

The 2d central committee, it is announced today, purposes to assemble all the workmen's and soldiers' delegates who took no part in the last congress and to attempt to weld them into an organization which will fight the domination of the Bolsheviki. The leaders of the committee claim that out of 900 organized workmen and soldiers' councils, only approximately 100 participated in the last congress, among the abstainers being a very large majority of the army councils.

Berlin Admits British Success

BERLIN, Nov. 21, via London.—German reserves checked the British in the rear positions after ground had been gained by the attackers, says the day's official communiqué. The loss is announced of Marquing, Graincourt and portions of the permanently established works.

Between Arras and St. Quentin the German statement says, a strong artillery battle heralded the English attack. The villages in the fighting zone, among them Graincourt and Marquing remained in the possession of the British.

The war office says the British main attacks strove to break through in the direction of Cambrai. Secondary attacks north and south of the main battlefield had local and limited objects.

Between Pontaine les Croisilles and Biencourt, it is added, the attackers were unable to advance beyond the German foremost line.

Austrians Moved Down in Heaps
ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, Nov. 20.—Going to points along the Piave river where the heaviest fighting has occurred, the Associated Press correspondent was told by officers of unusual circumstances connected with the engagements. The colonel commanding the Bersaglieri who carried the day said the strategy which the Austrians attempted turned the tide against them.

In the light on the cemetery road it was suddenly found that a number of Austrians were coming toward the Italian lines with both hands held up as though ready to surrender. For a moment it was believed the fight was over and that the enemy had capitulated. But it was then noticed that all the Austrian machine guns had been reloaded and closer observation showed that behind this front line of men with their hands up followed lines with bayonets and machine guns.

The Italians let them come until the range was short and they were then a deadly fire was opened on both sides and the Austrians were mowed down in heaps.

ENDICOTT SAYS RAILROADS NEED MONEY

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—Henry E. Endicott, executive manager of the state committee on public safety, testifying today at a hearing before George W. Anderson of the interstate commerce commission on petitions of New England railroads for increased freight passenger rates, declared that while the roads had far more business than they could handle they were unable to make it pay, notwithstanding that they had been placed on the most economical basis.

Mr. Endicott was introduced at a witness for the roads because of his familiarity with transportation problems by virtue of his service as arbitrator in adjusting numerous wage disputes.

"There are some items of increase which must be met," Mr. Endicott said. "I have recently been called to arbitrate wage increases, and in deciding that such increases were necessary in part I was sure that additional increases would be asked for within a short time."

"It is of the utmost importance that the United States should have good transportation facilities at this time," and we ought to have better service than at present. If a 15 per cent increase in freight rates was granted it would mean $100,000 to the shipping expense of my shoe factory, yet I do not believe that that amount would be lost to me, but on the other hand I believe that I would gain by it."

"I think the laboring man today is not getting enough to make up for the increased cost of living, and for that reason I believe that freight rates will be increased as well as the cost of living."

Mr. Endicott was called after Charles S. Pierce, counsel for the Boston & Maine railroad, had explained the increases proposed by the several railroads. He said added income was imperative.

President Henry I. Harriman of the Boston chamber of commerce declared an increase in rates of some other means of providing additional funds for New England railroads was absolutely necessary as a war measure.

Under the proposed passenger rate schedule the cost of mileage by boat would be increased from 21-4 to 21-3 cents a mile, single fare tickets from 21-2 to 23-4 cents, and commutation tickets by a flat 25 per cent. The increases in class freight rates would average 15 per cent.

All of the New England states and New York were represented at the hearing. Frederick J. MacLeod and Joseph B. Eastman, members of the public service commission appearing for Massachusetts; William C. Bliss for Rhode Island; Edward C. Niles, William H. Gunnison and Thomas W. D. Woodbury for New Hampshire; William R. Warner, Robert C. Bacon and Walter A. Dutton, Vermont; and Benjamin F. Cleaves, John E. Bunker and William B. Skelton, Maine.

The Boston & Maine Central, New York, New Haven & Hartford, Boston & Albany, Bangor & Aroostook, Central Vermont and Grand Trunk railroads were represented by counsel and appearance also were entered in behalf of the Boston chamber of commerce and numerous trade organizations. Conrad W. Crooker appeared for the Boston & Maine, representing the minority stockholders protective association.

William V. King, an examiner for the interstate commerce commission, appeared in the capacity of people's attorney.

He explained in opening that the petition for passenger fare increases as applied to the Central Vermont, Rutland and Grand Trunk roads referred only to mileage tickets and that no change was proposed in one-way fares.

CHILDREN LIKE To Take It

Thousands of children have worms and their parents don't know what the trouble is.

Symptoms of worms are: Deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hair falling out, itching of the rectum, griping and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Always keep Dr. Tru's Elixir on hand for such cases. It is promptly effective and the nice thing about it is that children like to take it.

Mrs. H. W. Roberts of 502 1/2 Asylum Street, Flint, Michigan, wrote to us: "I have used the Elixir and as a result my little boy is cured of worms."

She wrote in again later saying, "Baby is fine and I think it was your medicine that helped him."

Dr. Tru's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, has been on the market more than 25 years and more than 100,000,000 people are using it all the time to expel worms, or to tone up the stomach and restore natural action of the bowels.

COAL DEALERS COMBINE
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—Retail coal dealers, representing 11 states, formed the National Retail Coal Merchants' association yesterday, the purpose of which is to consolidate the retail coal men preparatory to dealing directly with the Federal Fuel Administration.

The organization plans to appoint a commissioner to represent the dealers at Washington to work with the national fuel administration on prices and distribution of coal supplies. It intends also to draw up a system of retailers' cost accounting to standardize the terms to be charged up as cost of doing business.

This method, speakers said, will do away with the confusion since the government issued its orders on price fixing in putting out how far the dealers should go in dividing the difference between actual costs and profits.

BRITISH NAVAL VICTORY IN CATTEGAT DESCRIBED

BASE OF BRITISH GRAND FLEET, Nov. 9 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The recent naval action in the Kattegat, where the British sank a German cruiser and ten armed patrol ships, is an example of the careful planning which lies behind every move on the naval chart.

The actual fight in the Kattegat began about 7 o'clock in the morning, and was over three hours later. The German fleet behind its fortifications received the call for help but dared not take a chance—probably well knowing that any attempt to send out help would be confronted with enemies rising out of the sea from all directions.

The Kattegat is a deep bay lying between Denmark and Sweden and leading out through the Skagerrak into the North sea. The German auxiliary cruiser Marie was leading the fleet of patrol boats. Her captain, Edd Laurback, was wounded but reached the Danish shore safely. His ship was "suddenly attacked" he said in an interview with a Danish newspaperman afterward, "by a fleet of British destroyers, and the shells fired by them descended with such rapidity that the men on the Marie were almost unable to use the guns. Only a few shots were fired before the ship was a mass of flames. His report that he fired his guns as long as possible is denied by his own men, who declare that Laurback was 'seized with funk' as soon as the enemy appeared and that not a single shot was fired from the Marie's guns.

Fight on Germany's "Doorstep"

Presumably the Marie was making her way towards the trade route between Norway and Scotland, in hopes of repeating the successful German attack on the British convoy on Oct. 17. The British commander concentrated his fire first of all on the Marie and then detached his fastest vessels to round up the escorting patrol vessels. This was thoroughly done after a hunt lasting nearly three hours. This action, it should be remembered, occurred in waters which the Germans regard as practically one of their "inland seas."

An interesting comparison might be made between this clean victory by the British destroyers and the tip-and-run raid by the German light cruisers on a British convoy on Oct. 17. The Germans sent out two of their fastest cruisers in the darkness, struck their blow in nervous haste in the early morning hours, not even pausing to rescue a single life of hundreds of combatants and non-combatants, then ran away northward to spend the remaining hours of daylight in hiding, and when night fell dash down the Norwegian coast and thus returned home without being intercepted.

On the occasion of the British victory the fight occurred, not in the North sea but on Germany's doorstep, not at night but in daylight; not hurriedly and nervously, for 64 prisoners were taken, drowning men rescued from the water, thus providing another vivid contrast between German and British methods of warfare.

500,000,000 POUNDS OF SUGAR AT JAWA AWAITS SHIPS TO UNITE-ED STATES

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—Word came yesterday that 500,000,000 pounds of sugar are piled up on the island of Jawa awaiting shipment. Because of lack of tonnage, however, there is said to be small chance that much of it will reach American shores for some months.

Here's Speedy Relief from Kidney Troubles

"Foley Kidney Pills have done me a heap of good," A. T. Bartlett, Brockton, Mass.

Some days it seems as if you can no longer bear the pain and misery you suffer from kidney and bladder trouble. The ache across your back grows worse with every move you make, and with every step you take. It not only robs you of all your strength and energy, but it affects the other important organs of the body as well. Nervousness, headache, disordered stomach, liver trouble, bad eyesight, are only some of the conditions that follow kidney trouble.

Foley Kidney Pills help the sick weak kidneys to regain their normal healthy state and activity. When they are again able to do their work effectively, your system is no longer choked and blocked with poisonous waste matter. Your symptoms clear up, your weariness, pain, misery and weakness go away. Foley Kidney Pills can do you also "a heap of good."

Falls & Burckshaw, 415 Middlesex St., Moody's Drug Store, 301 Central St., product came to Boston yesterday by rail from San Francisco. It was the Philippine product and was about equally distributed between the American and the Foreign Sugar Refining companies, and it will take nearly a week to refine the importation.

AMERICANS PLAN TO TRAP GERMANS FAIL

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Nov. 20.—(By The Associated Press).—Only the fact that the Germans failed to venture into No. Man's Land on a recent night saved them from an American surprise. One hundred and sixty men of the first battalions to enter the trenches were given special training and after being transported to the front, crawled across No Man's Land and took positions in front of and in the German wire entanglements at a point where it had been discovered the enemy came out every night.

Each man had been trained to a special task and the entire unit had rehearsed the part it intended to play under conditions similar to that in

EXODUS OF GERMANS FROM WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Today is the last that natives of Germany who have not obtained their final naturalization papers and who have come to Washington since war was declared on April 5, may remain in this city. Germans whose residence at the national capital ante-dates the war declaration will have until December 15 to pack up their goods and go away.

After midnight tonight every German remaining here against these orders will be arrested and held for internment. Every German leaving Washington must report to the authorities where they are going and must report also to the federal marshal of the district to which they go. ## CHILDREN MUST NOT OPERATE AUTOS

Special to The Sun
STATE HOUSE, Boston, Nov. 21.—Automobile owners who permit children less than sixteen years of age to operate their machines are hereafter to lose their licenses; if the highway commissioners catch them. This policy, recently determined upon by the commission, was put into effect yesterday for the first time on a broad scale, when the commission announced that it had forbidden an entire family to operate motor vehicles in this state.

In the family in question there is a father and two sons. The father owns a machine and holds a license. Neither of the boys has held a license, one of them being too young to obtain one. Yet all three are alleged to have operated the machine, it being specifically charged that the boys have operated it alone, although the father, under the law had no right to operate except under the supervision of a licensed person, while the younger had no right to handle the wheel under any circumstances.

An investigation having substantiated the charges to the full satisfaction of the members of the commission, the father was summoned to the office of the father for a period of thirty days, on the ground that he permitted his car to be driven by a person who had no right to operate it; they have forbidden the elder son to operate, even when accompanied by a licensed person, on the ground that he had operated a motor vehicle without a license. And in the case of the younger boy, because he had no right to operate which could be taken away, they have announced that he will be watched closely, and "interesting developments" will follow any attempt on his part to drive a car.

LOWELL MAN WANTED FOR MURDER

The local police have received several telegrams from Sheriff C. E. Dunn of Aroostook county, Me., offering a reward for the apprehension of one Alvin Moran, 17 years of age, said to be a former resident of this city. Moran is wanted for the alleged murder of Moses Tozier, an aged farmer of Sherman, Me. A reward of $50 is offered. Moran is described as being 17 years old, has dark hair, is five feet, seven inches in height and when last seen wore a gray mackinaw and cap. The local officials say that they have no heard of him before.

According to the story told, Moran left Lowell a few months ago and had been employed by Tozier in picking potatoes. Last Friday it is alleged that he returned to Sherman after a short absence and drove to the house of his former employer in a hired automobile. Upon reaching the house he asked the driver to wait for him. A little later, it is said, he returned to the auto and requested the driver to bring him back to the railroad station. He took a southbound train and that is the last that has been heard of him.

Tozier was found late Saturday lying on the upper floor of his home. Just before he died he claimed that he was attacked by Moran. An autopsy showed that Tozier's skull had been fractured by some flat instrument.

ELOPES WITH STEPMOTHER
BOSTON, Nov. 24.—Congetta Sardanio, an attractive matron of middle age, is at the Charles street jail, pending investigation by colonial authorities into her alleged elopement from Italy nearly four years ago. This information was elicited in the course of a hearing yesterday before Judge Duff in the criminal court. Her accuser is Giuseppe Arisoco, with whom it is alleged, she then fled from home and husband, but he is now pursuing her for eloping from Middletown, Ct., scarcely a fortnight ago, with Giuseppe's son, Michael Arisoco. With the father hot on the trail, the chase led to a Richmond street house, where the son and Mrs. Sardanio were arrested by Sgt. Thomas J. McFadden of the Hanover street station.

Deportation slaves in the face the Sardanio woman when she is again brought before the court. Friday next, while the Arisocos—father and son—may be ordered back by the Italian government to fight the Teutons.

EXEMPTED BY PRESIDENT
BOSTON, Nov. 21.—Hampton Robb of Cambridge, superintendent at the Burgess Aeroplane factory at Marblehead, has been exempted from the draft by order of the president, his case being the first in the Boston district.

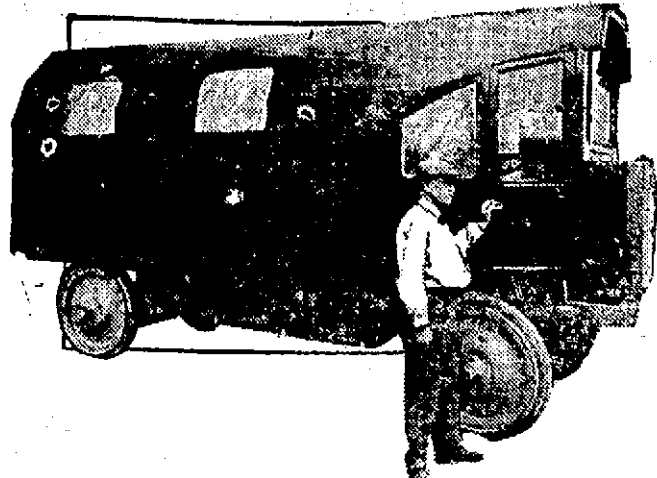

Mr. Robb was certified by his local board and refused exemption on industrial claims by the district board. The case was then appealed by his employers, after the young man had withdrawn his opposition and reported at Ayer. The president's decision is the result of this appeal.

DIVISION THREE EXEMPTION BOARD COMPLETES WORK OF TABULATING NAMES

NORTH ADAMS, Nov. 21.—George P. Lawrence, who was killed in New York today by jumping from a hotel window, was a member of congress from the first Massachusetts district from 1899 to 1913. He previously had served as judge of the district court for northern Berkshire and in 1896 had practiced law for a number of years.

Mr. Lawrence was 58 years of age. He was graduated from Amherst college in 1886 and received the degree of doctor of laws from that institution in 1910.

Sometime ago, Mr. Lawrence resigned as chairman of the local exemption board and went to Atlantic City for his health. Friends here learned today, that he was in New York yesterday.

Mr. Lawrence, who had been suffering from a nervous breakdown, left a note saying he could not stand the pressure any longer. He asked that his friend, former Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts, his brother-in-law, Miles Bracewell, and his former secretary, Hugh P. Drysdale, be notified of his death.

Former Senator Crane, who was stopping at a nearby hotel and had an appointment with Mr. Lawrence today, hurried to the Belmont as soon as he heard of the tragedy.

The dough on your fingers that you or your maid wash off is the sink, the dough that clings to the bread-board, the flour that spills while you are kneading, are wastes you cannot prevent. The only recourse is to stop baking your bread at home.

You can't respond when you are chained to the kitchen, nervous over whether your dough is rising properly and then watching it to the oven. It takes five hours to produce two loaves of bread in your kitchen—and then perhaps it is a soggy, unpalatable mess, indigestible and really a waste. "Hundreds of thousands of barrels of flour can be saved by housewives if they will buy bakers' bread. In up-to-date bake shops the correct temperature is maintained while the dough is rising. In home kitchens this is impossible. The door opens, a cold draught enters, and the dough falls. Then it is a case of lumpy Dumpty. Nothing can save that batch of dough from becoming soggy bread.

"Take shops, by modern contrivances, avoid wastes of dough. They can produce more bread per barrel of flour than housewives can. And bakers' bread is light. It toasts. Home-made bread won't. The crusts of bakers' bread can be easily dried, rolled and used. Your home-made crusts are too heavy for this.

Home baking is a triple waste—first, of wheat; second, of time; third, of your family's digestion.

"Hundreds of thousands of barrels of flour can be saved by housewives if they will buy bakers' bread. In up-to-date bake shops the correct temperature is maintained while the dough is rising. In home kitchens this is impossible. The door opens, a cold draught enters, and the dough falls. Then it is a case of lumpy Dumpty. Nothing can save that batch of dough from becoming soggy bread.

"Take shops, by modern contrivances, avoid wastes of dough. They can produce more bread per barrel of flour than housewives can. And bakers' bread is light. It toasts. Home-made bread won't. The crusts of bakers' bread can be easily dried, rolled and used. Your home-made crusts are too heavy for this.

"Women must therefore do less home baking. Then they can begin today to save wheat. Wheat will help win the war. Now is the time to act.

SLICE OF BREAD SAVED DAILY SAVES 365,000,000 LOAVES ANNUALLY

"If in each home in the United States there is saved one ounce of meat a day in one year, we save 465,000,000. One slice of bread saved daily saves 365,000,000 loaves annually. One pat of butter less a day means 114,000,000 pounds a year saved. A half cup of milk less per day saves $12,000,000 quarts of milk or the product of 400,000 cows. These figures prove that it behooves us to Hooverize.

"We are asked to observe wheatless days. Let us carry it further. Let us discover the real wastes of wheat in our homes. The home-baked loaf of bread, time hallowed though it be, is our worst offender. The women in France no longer bake their own bread. We must adopt similar measures here.

"One to three ounces of dough—wheat, in other words—is wasted in every home baking. The dough on your fingers that you or your maid wash off is the sink, the dough that clings to the bread-board, the flour that spills while you are kneading, are wastes you cannot prevent. The only recourse is to stop baking your bread at home.

"The Red Cross and other war relief organizations are begging for your help. You can't respond when you are chained to the kitchen, nervous over whether your dough is rising properly and then watching it to the oven. It takes five hours to produce two loaves of bread in your kitchen—and then perhaps it is a soggy, unpalatable mess, indigestible and really a waste. The government is supervising the bake shops. Each bake shop is to be licensed. But don't wait for the government to point out the wastes of home baking. Let us resolve now to save those thousands upon thousands of barrels of flour we are literally washing down our sinks.

"For years I have been an exponent of home baking. I have baked bread, rolls, pies, cakes by the thousands. I've taught scores of maids and girls to do the same but today, in my home, home baking is barred. I consider this action to be in accordance with the spirit of my Hoover pledge. And if every woman in this country will do likewise, I venture to say that one million barrels of flour will be annually saved for use by our allies."

ALLIED WAR COUNCIL

It was ex-Premier Asquith who led the attack against Premier Lloyd George in the house of commons, on the announcement of the inter-allied war council. Asquith should be the last man to attack the present premier who shows conspicuous courage, the very thing that most of all Asquith lacked. It was his cowardice that threw Ireland into a state of turmoil when he interposed his authority to veto an act of parliament giving Ireland home rule. He feared that General French and a few other military officials would bolt, if he allowed the act to be put into operation over the protest of Ulster.

In spite of all protests from political enemies and provincial statesmen, Premier George has carried his point and hereafter, the direction of the war will rest to a great extent with the inter-allied war council. Its function will be to direct how best the combined forces will be used and distributed to inflict the heaviest blows on the enemy and to avert defeat at any point so far as that is possible.

In fine it will mean a thorough coordination of all the forces engaged as if they were supplied by one country and directed from a single headquarters.

Premier George stated that there were two dangers to be guarded against. One is the submarine, which has been already placed under control. The other is the lack of united action among the allies.

The plan has already been adopted and not only England, but France, Italy and the United States are in it. Common sense would at once dictate the wisdom and even the extreme necessity of such a policy in view of all that has happened.

Premier George has had the courage to sweep away the provincialism and the national selfishness that have been operating to the injury of the allies and bringing one defeat after another. The allies are not engaged in a number of separate wars, but in a joint war in which all the belligerents must act in perfect harmony for the great aim to be accomplished, which is the defeat of Germany.

At the present moment the allies cannot say that they have had the best of the war, and unless they change their policy and unite as one nation against the enemy, they may not be able to change the situation in their favor for several years. The debacle of Russia taken in conjunction with the disaster to Italy has given Germany fresh confidence.

Had the United States not gone into the war the allies would have been beaten ere now, and Germany would be preparing to wage war against the United States to complete her conquest of the world.

THE BROTHERHOODS AGAIN

The railroads turn over their labor troubles to President Wilson to be settled as he pleases. Verily, the president must have his hands full with these industrial disputes which either should never happen or else should be settled without being thrown upon the president's shoulders.

The brotherhoods are out again for more money, and again the railroads assert they cannot meet the demands made upon them and continue in business without an increase of freight rates. Their claim is doubtless justified, and yet the transportation systems of the country must be kept in operation if the war preparations are not to be abandoned.

What can the president do? Will the brotherhoods yield their demands at the behest of the president as a patriotic duty? Oh no! That is not their policy. Rather would they tie up the entire transportation systems of the country if their demands are not granted, and wholly regardless of consequences. That has been their policy in the past, and there is no indication of any change in their methods of getting what they want.

All such demands should be submitted to arbitration by both sides to the controversy and some arrangement must be made to prevent the recurrence of such troubles while the war continues. If the wages of the engineers, conductors, trainmen and brakemen be increased now, then a corresponding increase in freight rates must follow. So the cost of living will continue to soar.

It is right that all the railroad crafts should have fair wages, and some method of adjustment should be provided that will not leave them free to paralyze the nation's preparations for war if their demands are not met at the very time and in the manner they may dictate.

GOMPERS' GREAT VICTORY

The American Federation of Labor has gone on record in support of President Wilson in the war by a vote of five to one. The opposition showed that there are pacifists and pro-Germans in the ranks, but it was buried in the avalanche of votes that followed the able speeches of loyal leaders, including President Gompers.

Mr. Gompers deserves credit for his keen foresight in uniformly, throughout his entire career, opposing socialism. The Federation of Labor is bitterly opposed by the socialists, who constitute the most internal menace to the nation.

President Gompers, in his speech in favor of the resolutions on which the convention split, showed that since the Detroit convention, some years ago, when the socialists tried to capture the federation, they have steadily fought the organization.

"They have," said Mr. Gompers, "started the Western Labor union, the American Labor union, and the I.W.O., and finally they started the so-called People's council. In the one instance it was rivalry to the American Federation of Labor, and in the last it was hostility to the republic of the United States."

At the conclusion of Mr. Gompers' speech, the resolutions were carried by a vote of 21,573 to 402.

Now, the A. F. of L. stands squarely in support of President Wilson's policy which, we presume, precludes strikes for the duration of the war.

President Gompers is to be congratulated on his success in overcoming all opposition in leading the labor hosts in the right path and in overcoming the elements which would oppose the government and thereby threaten the very liberties of this nation purchased by such heroic sacrifice.

HOOVER FINDS THE WAY

Although congress exempted food retailers from the food bill license provisions, thereby apparently tying the food administration's hands in any effective price regulation, Herbert Hoover has found a way to act directly in forcing retailers as well as storage men and wholesalers to accept moderate profits.

Congress, of course, in exempting the retailer, thought it was dodging political reprisal from this great body of dealers. However, however, has no political axe to grind. His sole aim is to spare the mass of consumers excessive war prices.

He has no authority over retailers doing less than $100,000 of business a year. He cannot say to them "you must charge only a fair profit." But when he finds a retailer charging more than a fair profit, or buying up excessive stocks for speculation, he can say to the packer, storage man or wholesaler: "You must not sell to this man."

And that is precisely what he is going to do.

Retailers found buying prices or charging unreasonable profits will find themselves cut off absolutely from their sources of supply. It is the small dealers who have been charging the most exorbitant prices. If caught, they will be put out of business until the end of the war.

Which looks as though Hoover had found a way.

MONEY WELL SPENT

"One dollar spent in right formation is better than a hundred spent for reformation later."

That argument, one of many advanced by the congress of mothers, has been influential in creating a widespread public sentiment for the best type of kindergarten training. It has resulted in much successful kindergarten legislation.

But let us not stop with the kindergarten. Let us continue spending dollars to save hundreds all during the formative period of our children's lives.

It is cheaper, yes, and better, to spend dollars on neighborhood social centers, playgrounds, recreation spots, reading rooms, school gymnasiums and swimming tanks than hundreds of dollars on reform schools, reformation farms, jails and penitentiaries.

SEEN AND HEARD

The absence of street cars in Fletcher street will not increase property values in that district.

When a steam railroad or a street railway announce a change in schedule it simply means that a long suffering public is made to suffer some more.

Put It Up to the Clerk

Her eyebrows, real or camouflage, were so arched that they gave to her face a look of perpetual surprise. She wore a big yellow chrysanthemum on her breast, and her hair was as yellow as the flower's petals, as told by the Boston Traveler. She flitted into a dog store in Boylston street. A clerk almost broke his leg trying to reach her first. She looked about in delightful confusion, and then asked, with a smile:

"Can you suggest a good name for a yellow cat?"

A Proud Mother

At a 31st birthday party a mother was raising the talents of her son, and, being anxious to make him appear at his best before the company present, asked him to show his prizes. One of the guests, picking up the best of the articles, said:

"And what did you win this prize for?"

"For that was for running," said the proud mother.

"And who presented it to him?" asked the guest.

"We did," said the mother.

"Why was that?" asked the guest.

"Why, you see," said the proud

DANISH WOMAN REGAINS HEALTH

Tells Everybody What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Her.

Chicago, Ill.—"It gives me great pleasure to let others know that I improved in health with the first bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; after taking two bottles I am entirely well. Before taking it I could not do any kind of work without a pain in my back as I suffered so much from inflammation. I had headaches, was all ways tired and no appetite. Words cannot express my gratitude for the good your medicine has done me, and through me to my family. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women suffering from female troubles, particularly to Danish women."—Mrs. META DAMGAARD-MATZAN, 2137 Kimball Ave., Chicago, Ill.

It is positively true that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

A Double Header

A visitor had dropped in "just for a minute," but she remained about three hours after the minute was up. Little Freddie had formed several plans, the execution of which must be postponed till the departure of his mother's guest, so he sat quietly thinking things.

"Dear little man!" gushed the visitor. "And what is he thinking about so deeply?"

"I was wondering if it wasn't time for you to be going," said Freddie.

"Hush!" said the mother. "Then, turning to her guest: 'You mustn't be offended, Mrs. Smith. Children will go blurring out the truth without thinking, but they don't mean anything by it.'"

Then Mrs. Smith recollected that she had only three minutes in which to catch the last car home.

A Prize Winning Sweater

Speaking of sweaters and such knitted by women, Mrs. Maria L. Wilbur of Fall River last summer knitted a khaki-colored sweater, helmet and wristers which are not only giving pleasure to one of Uncle Sam's soldiers, but which paid for itself, and the yarn to make others several times over, and made quite a reputation for itself in the bargain. At the urgency of her friends, but somewhat doubtfully for herself, Mrs. Wilbur exhibited the outfit she had knitted at the Newport county fair in September. There was a goodly array of such articles there, but the Fall River sweater and helmet received first prize. When the Lincoln park fair was held the articles were put on exhibition there, and again they won the first prize. From the prize money thus received Mrs. Wilbur purchased the wool for several more all of which, including the father of the family, have gone to make comfortable men in the army, including her grandson, Robert, and the men drafted from her son-in-law's manufacturing. Whether they know it or not the boys who wear those sweaters have something to boast of.

Sweets Seamtress' Saviors

Business is good for the seamstress. That the war has not the effect of decreasing, but instead increasing the business of the seamstress to such a volume that orders are on hand for the next six months, was indicated by a local needle and thread artist.

"Why, business is so good I cannot promise to take work until after the holidays," said this seamstress. "It is not only a few of us who are busy, but all of us, and business will be good as long as we are engaged in the war."

"The lady of moderate means who heretofore has been doing her own sewing is now knitting for the soldiers abroad, and is turning the needlework she formerly did herself over to the dressmaker, with the result that we are swamped with orders."

Many a last winter's garment has been slightly made over and is being worn this year by the woman who cannot afford to have a new one made, and would rather make the sacrifice and have her old garment made over to help the sons and brothers of so many American women, now serving their flag on the battlefield, than do it herself.

Arithmetic

"Many a little makes a mickle." It takes five pennies to make a nickel; it takes a nickel to buy an egg. For the little red hen is a first-class egg.

It takes five eggs for a custard pie. So we don't have any when eggs are high.

For it takes five pies for our families. Counting my brothers and sisters and me.

And my mother's Paw and my father's Paw.

And my father's father and mother-in-law.

And 'would take five families big as powers.

In wind and muscle and arms and legs.

To earn the money to buy the eggs. And if all five families wanted pie.

With milk so scarce and eggs so high. How many pennies would that be?

My teacher says, she says to me: I hate arithmetic, don't you?

And I wish this blamed old war was through.

—Ted Robinson in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

United States cuts off supplies to Russia

UNITED STATES CUTS OFF SUPPLIES TO RUSSIA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—No shipments of supplies will be permitted to go from the United States to Russia until the situation in that country clears.

The American government, before allowing the export of goods already on the docks, wants to know into whose hands they will fall on their arrival.

The cessation of shipments is temporary only, if a stable government is formed which the United States can recognize. If the Bolsheviks gain control and pursue their program calling for a peace with Germany, the embargo will be permanent. A protracted civil war also would work to keep the embargo tight, as the United States then would fear that supplies might go to the Bolshevik faction.

The provisional Russian government would give credits amounting to $500,000,000, of which $150,000,000 already had been advanced. Much of this money has been spent for supplies now awaiting shipment, and the Russians have been given vouchers for its transport. Shipment will be held up by denial of bunker coal to the ships.

Conditions in Russia still are far from clear. The state department yesterday had no additional dispatches from Ambassador Francis at Petrograd but unofficial messages coming from Sweden were that General Kadishin, chairman of the Don Cossacks, who the master hand in Russia through domination of the country's coal and bread supply in the Cossack region, was marching with an army on Voronezh, 100 miles south of Moscow.

Passengers arriving at the Swedish frontier from Russia also reported that soldiers were parading the Petrograd streets bearing banners demanding a constitutional assembly of all Russia and declaring that the Bolshevik regime was more tyrannical than that of Nicholas. The passengers believed the revolutionaries and the government must fall through lack of support of the principal parties.

The only official despatch reaching the state department yesterday from Russia announced that John P. Stevens, head of the American railway commission to Russia, had left Petrograd for Vladivostok in connection with his work of facilitating the Russian railway system.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 21.—Characterizing the refusal of Gov. McCall of Massachusetts to honor his request for the return to West Virginia, for trial, of John Johnson, a negro, charged with attacking a white girl in this city, as constituting "a reflection upon the state of West Virginia and showing a deplorable lack of knowledge of it and its people, Gov. John J. Cornwell late yesterday made public a letter which he had written to the Massachusetts executive.

Before receiving Gov. McCall's letter declining to honor the request, Gov. Cornwell had written to the Massachusetts governor a personal letter guaranteeing that no harm should come to Johnson and declaring "there is absolutely no danger of Johnson's being lynched or otherwise mistreated."

Gov. Cornwell's letter to Gov. McCall follows:

"I have your letter declining to honor my request for the return of John Johnson, now in your city, charged with rape in this country. With all due respect to the representative of your state, who visited this city for the alleged purpose of making an investigation regarding the matter, I am compelled to say that he evidently misled you as to the facts in this matter.

"The suggestion that exaggerated reports of the crime have been generally circulated in the community and that, on account of the nature of these reports and the race of the defendant, there exists a prejudice which would be difficult, if not impossible, of control by the most upright judge, is not only unwarranted and untrue, but is a reflection on this state and its courts, which I very frankly and respectfully resent. It is not justified by any records or incidents connected with the state since its organization.

Haps McCall's Agent

"The prosecuting attorney of this county in a letter to me advises that your 'trained officer' who came to this city for the alleged purpose of investigating the case was here several days before calling upon any officer of the state or county; that he frequented the 'Red Light' district where Johnson's alleged crime was committed; that he was accompanied by a man who appeared to be a detective; that the prosecuting attorney gave him the names of a great many witnesses, whom he could not have interviewed before leaving the city, and gave him all the facts within the possession of the state's representative.

"The prosecuting attorney requested the privilege of presenting West Virginia's side of the case at the coming hearing at Johnson's trial in Massachusetts and was assured it was not necessary to do so, but when he insisted upon making that appearance, he was told he would be advised when the matter was to be again heard. No such advice was received, and the prosecuting attorney had no information or information relative to the

"Only a few days ago I honored a requisition for the return of an alleged fugitive to your state. The crime with which he was charged was insignificant and unimportant as compared with the one with which Johnson is charged, and for which two people are now serving sentence in the state penitentiary as accessories.

"Your refusal to the grant of this requisition, for the reasons alleged, constitutes a reflection upon the state of West Virginia and shows a deplorable lack of knowledge of it and its people.

"It also, in my opinion, tends to thwart the ends of justice and violates the spirit of comity between the states to an extent that I shall feel compelled to scrutinize with more than usual care any similar requisition from you."

The crime with which Johnson is charged is an attack on Nellie Kallenberger, a 11-year-old white girl, alleged to have been committed in December, 1916. Nine persons were indicted in the case, seven of whom now are serving sentences for the crime.

LETTER FROM ANOTHER LOWELL BOY IN FRANCE---TOBACCO VERY SCARCE

Mr. John Fitzgerald of 118 Butterfield street has received a letter from his son, Thomas W., who is now in France with Co. G, 14th U. S. Infantry. The epistle in part is as follows:

Dear Pa---Just a few lines to let you know that I am over here safe and sound and ready for anything that comes my way. We arrived all right, and, believe me, I never thought there was so much water in the world. It was stormy for two days, but I wasn't a bit sick.

We are living in a typical French village and are billeted in the houses of the people. They are fine people. I can't tell you very much about what is going on over here; in fact, I can't tell you anything at all.

This morning in a little church that is 400 years old, but it looks more like 1600. It was a low mass but an old man sings through the entire mass instead of a choir. A little girl brought two loaves of bread up to the altar and the priest broke them up and gave everybody a small piece.

The people here are typical peasants and they all wear wooden shoes; when they go into their houses they leave the shoes outside the door. Little girls, four or five years old, can take care of a cow just as good as any American farmer.

It has rained every day since we've been here, and it looks as though it were going to keep up as long as we stay here. I don't think it will be very long before we meet Hens and Fritz---"it me?"

Tell Pa---that if he isn't in the service when you receive this letter that one way to serve his country would be to spend a dollar and send me a dollar's worth of tobacco as we are dying for a smoke. I will close now as I have gone the limit.

Tommy.

SUGAR CAN BE SENT TO AMERICAN SOLDIERS IN FRANCE

In order to clear up considerable misunderstanding on the subject of shipping sugar to the soldiers in France, Postmaster John P. Meehan has made the following announcement which explains the matter:

"Sugar can be sent to American soldiers in France, but it cannot be sent to British, or French soldiers there, because in England and in France the inhabitants are on compulsory rationing. There are restrictions about sending sugar through the mails from one point to another in this country, but no such restriction holds with respect to our boys in France."

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

BRITISH CALL FOR BIG U. S. ARMY IN FRANCE

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Premier Lloyd George opened the Anglo-American council of war yesterday with a speech which the conference described as having been an important statement. The speech, like the rest of the proceedings, is being kept secret; but one conferee said the spirit of greatest earnestness and unity permeated the meeting, and that the most important practical results were achieved. In the course of his speech Mr. Lloyd George said:

"Assuming that the submarine situation does not get worse, the ending of the position of the allies depends entirely upon the dates on which the American program of launching 6,000,000 tons of shipping promised for 1918 comes into practical effect." The premier told the mission that the collapse of Russia and the verses to Italy "made it even more imperative than before that the United States send as many troops as possible across the Atlantic as early as possible."

CONSTIPATION CAUSES OBSTINATE HEADACHES

When your head aches you will usually find the bowels have been inactive, and if you relieve this condition, by clearing the intestinal organs of the fermenting congestion of stomach waste, foul gases and bile, the head is relieved immediately.

Remember this the next time you suffer from headache. The combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold by druggists under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is highly recommended as a gentle laxative that acts easily and quickly, without griping or discomfort. It contains no opiate, narcotic, or habit-forming drug, is pleasant to the taste, and a most effective household remedy. Mothers find it especially desirable as a laxative for children. You can buy Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from your druggist for fifty cents. Get a bottle and have it in the house when needed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 436 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

American Services "Invaluable"

The premier thanked the mission for "the invaluable services the United States navy has already rendered, not only in protecting commerce, but in dealing with the submarine, for vital assistance in financing the war and for effective help in many other ways. With reference to the question of supplies, Mr. Lloyd George assured the mission that the most drastic restrictions were about to be imposed upon the people of the British Isles. The conference lasted an hour and a half, the members having frequent recourse to the mass of statistics and official documents at their command. There was little formality about the proceedings. Lord Reading started them by explaining the purposes of the meeting and a general discussion followed. At the close the conference reported that satisfactory progress had been made.

All Britain's Leaders Present

The American representatives were Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, chief of staff; Admiral William S. Benson, chief of naval operations; Thomas Nelson Perkins, member of the priority board; Dr. Alonzo Taylor, representing the food controller; Bainbridge Colby of the United States shipping board; Oscar T. Crosby, assistant secretary of the treasury; and Vance McCormick, chairman of the war trade board. The British representatives were Premier Lloyd George, Foreign Minister Balfour, Viscount Milner, George Nicoll Barnes and Earl Curzon of Kedleston, constituting the war cabinet; Lord Reading, representing the Northcliffe; the Earl of Derby, Gen. Sir William R. Robertson and Lieut. Gen. Jan C. Smuts, representing the army; Sir Eric Geddes and Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, representing the navy; and Maj. John L. Baird, Baron Rhonda, Lord Robert Cecil, Walter Hume Long and Dr. Christopher Addison, representing respectively aviation, food, blockade, petroleum and munitions.

The scene of this, the first and epoch-making council of all the English-speaking nations from the four quarters of the earth to make joint war upon a common enemy, was the dingy old residence in Downing street which has served the prime ministers of many generations as both home and office where the destinies of the British empire have been shaped since the days of the American Revolution.

The general work of the meeting consisted in the taking of stock of the resources and needs of both countries, and to some extent, of the continental allies.

The conference met at noon as had been planned. Lord Reading was the first to arrive. He had a five-minute chat with Premier Lloyd George and then prepared to greet the distinguished men from America and the British participants.

Some of these came on foot and others in motors driven by black-clad chauffeurs. There was no demonstration by the sightseers, only a small group to whom the time of the meeting was known being present.

Lord Robert Cecil, the minister of blockade, walked unaccompanied from the foreign office. The crowds displayed deep interest in Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, chief of staff of the Ameri-

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
"The Telephone Tangle," appearing at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week, is one of the most engaging of novelty comedies. It is absolutely different in its style, and it is staged in an exceptionally clever way. The comedy efforts of Joe Bonnett and Claude West are rewarded with much applause, while the "hello" girl offering of Edith Mendoza is fetching. No more refined act has appeared here in a long time than that of the Misses Campbell, who are real Broadway favorites. Their impromptu musicals are something which is wholly worth while and the two singers and players offer some of the best song numbers. Melahon and Chappell's new kind of comedy called "Why Husbands Apologize" are hilariously applauded for their efforts, and the Great Howard, vaudeville, has one of the best part theatrical finales seen in a local theatre this season. It's a corker. The battle-age juggling of the Tussocks, and the comedy, singing and dancing of Brown and Barrows are also thoroughly enjoyed. This week's picture feature is "Near Marston," with pretty Madge Kennedy in the principal role. The Hearst-Pathe News pictures are most instructive.

OPERA HOUSE

Good comedy, well presented and handled in an intelligent manner, invariably proves enjoyable entertainment, and that's why this week's production of "Arms and the Girl," by the new American players at the Opera House is giving thorough satisfaction to the large number of patrons who are daily visiting this playhouse. It is the first opportunity Lowell theatre-goers have had to see the players in this particular brand of entertainment, and judging from the enthusiastic manner in which they are being received, there's not the slightest question but what they are pleasing immensely. The piece is a clever concoction of good humor, interesting character and an absorbing story. The authors have built around the actions of a couple of young Americans, a young man and young woman, who have been marooned at a Belgian inn at the time the Germans capture the village, a series of situations and conditions that combine in making good, wholesome and thoroughly entertaining fun. One can help liking the general mixture of mirth and action that are blended together in three acts. Miss Rotoli and Mr. Dumbrell, who portray the characters of the young couple, are indeed clever, while their support is many degrees above the average generally accorded a leading man and woman. The staging of the play is also carried out in the same high standard established by the presentation. Seats are now selling for the remaining performances. Order quick or you will be disappointed. Tel. 261.

THE STRAND

Miss June Elvidge and Montague Love, two of the world's famous motion picture stars, will appear in person at The Strand on Thursday at noon and night. Their coming is being looked forward to with anticipations of real pleasure by the thousands of film lovers of Lowell and vicinity and no doubt large audiences will be on hand to welcome their visit here. Miss Elvidge is well remembered for her sensational successes in some of the biggest picture productions during the past two seasons. Her appearance in that wonderfully interesting photo-play, "The Whip" will be favorably recalled by the large majority of patrons, while Mr. Love's name is so actively identified with most of the big productions of recent date that little need be said of his art to visit Camp Devens Thursday morning and will call at city hall at noon to pay a visit to Mayor O'Donnell. They will appear at the matinee and night performances at The Strand and will hold receptions after their talk on "The Manufacture of Motion Pictures." All those desiring may personally meet both stars. The last day in which to see Theda Bara in her latest and by far her best production, "The Blood." This presentation has as its central figure a woman, such as was responsible for the famous Legion of Death in Russia, who has identified herself with the revolutionary movement, and willingly gives the life of

LOWELL FIVE DEFEATS ALL STARS OF BOSTON

Capt. Herb Cole again led the Lowell Five to victory last evening in Associate hall when the fast local basketball team defeated the much heralded All Stars of Boston by the safe margin of 34 to 13.

It was easily the best contest which has been seen on the local floor this season. A fair-sized crowd, somewhat depleted because of the interest in the political nominations, was on hand to urge on Cole's men at every opportunity and the five certainly responded. The All Stars, who had defeated Lowell twice last season, presented a formidable looking lineup as far as avoidability went and when the opening whistle set the two coteries in action it was soon evident that very little of the weight was lodged in the feet of the visitors from the Hub. They presented the usually invincible combination of weight and speed. However, Manager Murphy's charges "went to it" in a game style and by the time the second period was over there was little doubt of the eventual outcome.

Capt. Cole must be declared elected the individual star of the game because when all the ballots were tabulated it was found that he swept the district with a total of eight baskets. And many of them were of the hard-to-make type. Cole shot from positions anywhere near the basket and although he did not make every shot his total shows what taking a chance combined with a little real skill will do to pile up a score.

"Bucky" Lew played his usual good game and was especially strong on the defensive. His blocking prevented the All Stars from adding to their constellation of baskets. Finn, the capable Lowell centre, usually sent the ball Lowell-ward in the opening scrimmage and to prove his value to the team he chucked the spheroid in the basket four times, giving Lowell eight of her points thereby.

The final period of the game was a profile with good things from a Lowell viewpoint. At the end of the second period the game stood in favor of the locals by the fairly safe margin of 21 to 10, but to make sure of the contest the game got into the game right away and piled up 12 additional points on goals besides one point which the All Stars forfeited because of the tactics in the fouling line.

Four 8-minute periods. The Mitchell Boys' Alumni association will hold its annual reunion next Saturday, and it is expected that a large number of the former members of the school will be in attendance. A football game, a demonstration of the new moving picture machine in the gymnasium and a dinner will be the features of the reunion.

LANGFORD AND WILLS BARRED
TOLEDO, O., Nov. 21.—The local boxing commission at a special meeting last night, made a ruling barring Sam Langford and Harry Wills, negro heavyweights, from further participation in bouts in a Toledo ring. The two men appeared here a week ago, and the commission ruled that the bout was not on the square.

a star aggregation but the locals were just a little better. The game was a regularly clean one as the foul column shows and real dirty work was not in evidence at any time. "Bill" Wilson ran the game in his usual energetic manner.

It was announced that the Lowell Five would play the Brophy Five next Tuesday evening in Associate hall.

The Mizer-Doyle orchestra furnished music between the periods and general dancing was enjoyed after the game.

The lineup and score:
Lowell 34, All Stars 13.

MITCHELL BOYS' SCHOOL TRIMS CONCORD HIGH
The Mitchell Boys' school football team won from the Concord high school team yesterday afternoon at Billerica by the score of 12 to 0. The game was well fought and the visitors displayed a lot of gameness. They were outclassed by the Billerica boosters, however. "Roundie" Roane, of Lowell high school football fame, is coaching the Mitchell boys, and the results of his efforts are being shown as the season progresses. Yesterday's lineup and score were as follows:

WITH THE PIN WOBBLERS ON LOCAL ALLEYS

Great enthusiasm was displayed in the games in the City league last night but high scores were lacking. The game between the Kimballs and Middlesex teams proved to be a good one, it being a case of "50-50." The Kimballs lost the first string by the narrow margin of five pins, captured the second by a good score, but dropped the third, but the "painters" got the total. McQuade of the Kimballs was high man with a total of 310.

While the contest between the White Waves and Crescents was a close one, the former team took all four points. The Highland Daylights took four points from the Merrimacks. Hall with a total of 333 was high man. The Carrs took three points from the Quins after losing the first string, but the game between the Spindles City and Jewels proved to be a walkover for the former team, which took all four points.

LOWELL CHAUFFEUR'S LICENSE REVOKED

Special to The Sun
STATE HOUSE, Boston, Nov. 21.—As a result of his recent conviction on a charge of violating the automobile laws, Arthur Verfaillie of Lowell has been notified that his chauffeur's license has been revoked by the Massachusetts highway commission.

Verfaillie was recently found guilty of going away without stopping and making himself known after being involved in an accident which caused injury to the property of another, and under the law the commission is compelled to revoke his license. Unless the Judge before whom he was convicted recommends otherwise, the revocation must remain in effect for a period of one year.

BILLY CARPENTER, FANCY ROLL-ERSKATING CHAMPION, AT THE ROLLWAY
Private William Carpenter of Camp Devens, Ayer, who is better known throughout the country as "Billy" Carpenter, champion fancy roller skater, will appear at the Rollway rink tomorrow night and Saturday night, in a series of exhibitions. He was granted permission from his officers at the camp to perform for his home town folks before going "over there." This will be his last exhibition around these parts for some time, at least, and large crowds are expected to turn out to see the "champ" in action and give him a send-off that he will well remember when he reaches the battle zone. Carpenter's work here a year ago is well remembered by Lowell people, for he gave one of the most remarkable exhibitions on the rollers ever seen in this city. He will rapidly and large crowds are expected to turn out to see the "champ" in action and give him a send-off that he will well remember when he reaches the battle zone. Big Baseball Deal
CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—President Charles H. Weegman of the Chicago National league today confirmed a report that an important deal for the exchange or purchase of a number of players had been virtually completed.

PASTORS OF LOCAL PROTESTANT CHURCHES PLAN TO OWN EVANGELISTIC WORK
A personal workers' institute was opened last evening at the Kirk Street church under the auspices of the Lowell Federation of Churches. The purpose of the institute is to enlist workers from the various churches in a great evangelistic movement which is now being started. Instead of bringing in an evangelist from the outside, it is planned to have the laymen of the various churches do the work themselves. Last evening's meeting was the first of a series to be held. Another will be held this evening at the Kirk Street church and the speaker will be Rev. A. Z. Conrad, pastor of the Park Street church.

The speaker last evening was Dean E. J. Birney of the Boston University School of Theology. Rev. William F. English, Jr., chairman of the evangelistic committee of the federation, presided and Rev. George E. Picard, the secretary, introduced the speaker.

Dean Birney spoke on "The Christian Life" and spoke of the various ways in which one might lead a Christian life. He urged his listeners to get away from the worship of efficiency and pay a little attention to their own souls. In conclusion he said: "I do not see how one can ever get by a sense of the obligation of each individual man to do his individual bit for the next man."

Positive Sale of Real Estate by Public Auction

TWO DWELLINGS AND ABOUT 10,000 SQUARE FEET OF LAND JUST BEYOND ST. JOSEPH'S FRENCH CEMETERY, IN EAST CHELMSFORD

SATURDAY, NOV. 24th, 1917, at 2 P. M.

I will sell by order of the mortgagee to the highest bidder this certain parcel of property located on the main highway leading past St. Joseph's French Catholic cemetery to Chelmsford Centre. The property consists of two buildings, one of which is brand new, finished this year, has seven rooms, hardwood floors in part, AND MOST OF ALL IS NEW.

The other dwelling is located right side of the above, has six rooms and is in very fair repair. The lot has an area of 10,000 square feet, with a good frontage. This sale is in many ways most attractive, and should interest any one desirous of a chance to buy a home and at the same time have an income, as either house will attract attention of tenants, and by so doing, living in one and receiving rent from the other, the expense of carrying the property is reduced to a minimum. It is a splendid chance to obtain real estate just outside the city limits in a good neighborhood, where the terms of payment are made the easiest.

Terms—$200 must be paid to the auctioneer just as soon as the property is struck off.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN THE POLICE COURT

Joseph A. Rice and Arthur J. King, who were arrested last week on complaint of larceny of clothing from the state infirmary at Tewksbury, where they had been employed as attendants, came up on continuance today and it was shown that Rice had been arrested for breaking and entering in Suffolk county in 1912 and placed on probation, while King is in reality Thomas McLaughlin, who has traveled under many aliases and among the offenses he had committed was that of highway robbery, for which he was given from not less than two and one-half years and not more than four years in state prison and was placed on parole on September 25, 1916.

Rice's sister pleaded for him and the court imposed a fine of $25 and ordered him to make restitution of $3 for one week from today, he being held under $500 bonds for his appearance at that time.

According to the story told in police court last week, Rice and King were employed as attendants at the state infirmary and being short of money, purloined some clothing and sold it to a second hand clothing dealer in Dutton street for which they received $6, but subsequently the dealer secured $3 of his money.

The goods were recovered by the police and both men were placed under arrest. When arraigned in police court last week, Rice gave his correct name, but King did not, according to the police.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

Nature warns you when the track of health is not clear. Kidney and bladder troubles cause many annoying symptoms and great inconvenience both day and night.

Unhealthy kidneys may cause lumbago, rheumatism, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints or muscles, at times have headache or indigestion, as time passes you may have a sallow complexion, puffiness or dark circles under the eyes, sometimes feel as though you had heart trouble, may have plenty of ambition but no strength, get weak and lose flesh.

If such conditions are permitted to continue, serious results may be expected; Kidney Trouble in its very worst form may steal upon you.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.
Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalence of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are among the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patients, who usually content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease may constantly undermine the system.

If you feel that your kidneys are the cause of your sickness or run down condition, try taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the famous kidney, liver and bladder medicine, because as soon as your kidneys improve, they will help the other organs to health.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular medium and large size bottles at all drug stores. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., which you will find on every bottle.

SPECIAL NOTE—You may obtain a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. This gives you the opportunity to prove the remarkable merit of this medicine. They will also send you a book of valuable information, containing many of the thousands of grateful letters received from men and women who say they found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed in kidney, liver and bladder troubles. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample size bottle. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Be sure to say you read this offer in the Lowell Sun.

PUBLIC HEALTH PROBLEM

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Nov. 20.—City health officers from a large number of Massachusetts cities expressed the opinion today before the special legislative commission on health insurance, that the general problem of public health conservation is now being efficiently administered under existing methods. It was generally agreed that more money with which to extend the present means of caring for school children is the greatest need.

Among the health officers present were: Dr. Samuel Sandier of Fall River, Dr. L. Z. Normandin of New Bedford, Dr. Hugh O. Peterson of Worcester, Dr. Thomas F. Carroll of Lowell, Fred Bates of Lowell, Dr. Bernard W. Carey of Fitchburg, and Dr. A. E. Broughton of Jamaica Plain.

The health officers were invited to appear before the commission to tell to what extent, in their opinion, poverty is the cause of distress, and whether or not proper hospital facilities are obtainable by the poor. The physicians pointed to the facts that the ravages of disease are constantly being lessened and that the proportion of physicians to the population is falling off as indications of the efficiency of the present methods. Food, clothing and shoes, it was represented, are as important as free medicine.

INSURANCE OF FIGHTING FORCES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—All officers and enlisted men and nurses in the army and navy were urged in an address issued today by Secretary McAdoo to apply to the bureau of war risk insurance at Washington for government life insurance before Feb. 12 next.

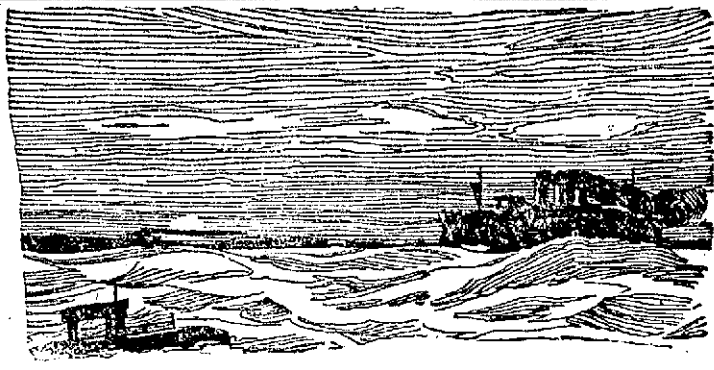

Failure to apply by that date, he explained, would bar them from the benefits of what he characterized as "the greatest measure of protection ever offered to its fighting forces by any nation in the history of the world." Dependents of any man killed before that time, however, will receive insurance payments, regardless of whether applications were made.

The government considers all of them insured automatically until then. "To care for the wife and children of the enlisted man during his service," said Secretary McAdoo, "the war insurance law compels him to contribute up to one-half of his pay for their support. The government on application will add to this an allowance of from $5 to $60 a month, according to the size of the family. Moreover, if the enlisted man will make some further provision himself for a dependent parent, brother, sister or child, the government may be included in the government allowance.

"If as a result of injuries or disease contracted in the line of duty, an officer or enlisted man or an army or navy nurse should be disabled, provision is made for compensation of from $30 to $100 a month to him, and should he die, compensation of from $20 to $75 a month will be paid to his wife, his child or his widowed mother.

"Every soldier and sailor and nurse, commissioned and enlisted, and of any age, has the right between now and Feb. 12, 1918, to take out life and total disability insurance up to $10,000 at very low cost, with the government without medical examination.

This right is purely optional. The soldiers and sailors are not compelled to take insurance but, if they desire to exercise the right they must do so before Feb. 12. The cost ranges from 25 cents monthly at the age of 21, to $1.25 monthly, at the age of 51, for each $1000 of insurance. This is a small charge of a man's pay—small in proportion to the benefits it may bring. The premiums will be deducted from

Waiting for the Mysterious U-Boat

Our destroyers and scout ships are waiting for the sudden attack or the deadly torpedo—the watch on the Atlantic is on the lookout for the first indication of hidden danger—it's a fight for life. For those leading a quiet life at home it is often the unexpected that happens. It may be that we are mysteriously attacked by pain in our back or limbs.

Backache of any kind is often caused by kidney disorder, which means that the kidneys are not working properly. Poisonous matter and uric acid accumulate within the body in great abundance, overworking the sick kidneys; hence the congestion of blood causes backache in the same manner as a similar congestion in the head causes headache. You become nervous, despondent, sick, feverish, irritable, have spots appearing before the eyes, bags under the lids, and lack ambition to do things.

LOWELL BOY WHO ENLISTED THREE WEEKS AGO DIES OF HEART DISEASE

Adelard Julien of 94 Aiken avenue, this city, who three weeks ago enlisted in the coast artillery corps and was stationed at Fort Warren, died Saturday of heart disease. The young man, who was 27 years old, came here from Winoski, Vt., about a year ago and made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Savard of 94 Aiken avenue, and was employed in the plant of the American Woolen company at Collinsville. Three weeks ago, he successfully passed the physical test and enlisted in the coast artillery corps. Last Saturday, he was expected in this city on a furlough, but a telegram was received to the effect that the young man had passed away. Deceased is survived by his father and mother and 13 brothers and sisters, all of Winoski, Vermont.

FATHER INJURED IN FIST FIGHT WITH SON

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Nov. 21.—Herbert Kennison, a farmer of Fairfax, was in a critical condition last night as a result of injuries which, the police allege, were sustained in a fist fight with his son, Rodney, Sunday night. It is feared the elder Kennison's skull is fractured. Rodney and his younger brother, Vernon, are being held under surveillance, pending an investigation.

SIR EDWARD CARSON CALLS LORD NORTHCLIFFE'S ATTACK A SHAM CRISIS

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Sir Edward Carson, in a speech in London yesterday defending the military and naval leaders from recent attacks and characterizing the agitation as "a sham crisis" attacked Lord Northcliffe, He said:

"In the midst of these attacks a great man—a statesman, if you like, comes to tell us that in contrast with America, we are so inefficient that America will have to take over the management of the war. I have a great admiration for this great man, but I think that it is a great calamity upon his fellow citizens, and I know it is not the view of America. I have had the honor of meeting many members of the American mission and they are lost in astonishment and amazement at the organization and the effort put forward by Great Britain. I have searched the official reports, and this great man, so far as I can see, has never made one single suggestion since the war began from his seat in parliament, when he can be criticized."

"I attended a historic meeting in Downing street yesterday. America has shaken hands with England across the Atlantic. We are in the war together to the end and will see it through."

GUARDS AT DOCKS AND PERS

On Duty Under Orders to Bar Germans From Water Fronts

Will Be Replaced Shortly at Larger Ports by Soldiers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Private guards went on duty at important docks and piers today on orders of Attorney General Gregory, under President Wilson's proclamation barring Germans from water fronts. They will be replaced shortly at the larger Atlantic ports by soldiers, but in the meantime all pier owners are instructed to supply their own watchmen and not to allow unidentified persons to either enter or leave the wharves.

Department of justice officials said troops would not be used generally as guards. They probably will be employed at Boston, New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Newport News, Norfolk and a number of other ports.

A movement of alien enemies from the 100-yard water front barred zones was under way today, supervised by United States marshals, who had instructions to arrest and intern any Germans failing to comply, or those acting suspiciously.

John Lord O'Brien, special assistant to the attorney general in charge of alien enemy supervision, announced that the registration of Germans ordered by the president will be put into effect first in Atlantic seaboard cities, probably next week. Police will have charge of the registration. The movement elsewhere probably will be deferred for a week or two.

New Russian Foreign Minister

PETROGRAD, Nov. 20.—The foreign office has been taken over by Leon Trotsky, sub-secretary Norov, who has had charge since the arrest of M. Terestchenko, formally surrendering control and departing along with the other employees.

The Volna Narodna says that within a few days Lenin and Trotsky will announce the successful establishment of a workers' and peasants' government, after which it is expected that foreign governments will enter into official negotiations through the new foreign minister.

Independence of Ukraine

PETROGRAD, Nov. 20.—The military chief of the district of Kiev and the temporary governor with their staffs are reported to have left their posts. Ukrainian nationalists have been appointed to succeed them and they have confirmed the independence of the Ukraine. Three hundred and sixty thousand Ukrainian troops are said to have been recalled from the front, threatening the operations of the army and the possible opening of the front to the enemy.

The town duma of Moscow has been dissolved by the revolutionary war committee. Mayor Roudnev of Moscow is reported to be in hiding. An armored train bound for Petrograd has been captured by detachments of sailors and returned to Moscow.

Opposition to Bolsheviks

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 21.—Reports brought by the latest travelers to reach Torina from Petrograd indicate that a revolution of feeling is settling in against the Bolsheviks. Regiments of soldiers have paraded the streets of the Russian capital bearing banners with inscriptions such as: "We want no separate peace." "Down with Petrograd's domination by a minority party tyranny." and "Nicholas regime was never so tyrannical as the Bolshevik regime."

The central committee of the anti-Bolshevik socialist coalition has passed a resolution demanding liberty of the press, the dismissal of the Red Guard, and the immediate cessation of fratricidal war. Maxim Gorky's paper, and the Volna Narodna also demand that the Red Guard be disbanded.

American Minister Morris learns from a competent source that the food supply in Petrograd is ominously short and that the bread ration is now three-quarters of a Russian pound for two days.

Nearly one-third of the members of the executive committee formed by the Maximalists at the outbreak of the revolt have resigned and it is reported that the remainder have conferred deliberative law-making powers on Nikolai Lenin, who is now issuing decrees altering the fundamental laws.

Breach Threatened

PETROGRAD, Nov. 20.—A breach in the workers' and soldiers' organizations throughout the country is threatened through the Central Workers' and Soldiers' Councils, each claiming authority as the duly constituted body and denying the rights of the other. workmen's and soldiers' delegates and which gave birth to the present governmental regime assumes to supersede another similar organization which dates back to the months immediately following the March revolution. These bodies are currently referred to as the first and second central committees.

The second central committee, it is announced today, purposes to assemble all the workmen's and soldiers' delegates who took no part in the last congress and to attempt to weld them into an organization which will fight the domination of the Bolsheviks. The leaders of the committee claim that out of 900 organized workmen's and soldiers' councils, only approximately 100 participated in the last congress, among the absentees being a very large majority of the army councils.

Berlin Admits British Success

BERLIN, Nov. 21, via London.—German reserves checked the British in the rear positions after ground had been gained by the attackers, says today's official communication. The loss is announced of Marcing, Graincourt and portions of the permanently established works.

Between Arras and St. Quentin the German statement says, a strong artillery battle heralded the English attack. The villages in the fighting zone, among them Graincourt and Marcing remained in the possession of the British.

The war office says the British main attacks strove to break through in the direction of Cambrai. Secondary attacks north and south of the main battlefield had local and limited objectives.

Between Fontaine les Croisilles and Riencourt, it is added, the attackers were unable to advance beyond the German foremost line.

Austrians Moved Down in Heaps

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, Nov. 20.—German troops were driven down the Italian lines with both hands held up as though ready to surrender. For a moment it was believed the fight was over and that the enemy had capitulated. But it was then noticed that all the Austrian machine guns had been removed and closer observation showed that behind this front line of men with their hands up followed lines with bayonets and machine guns.

The Italians let them come until the range was short and they were between two enfilading lines. Then a deadly fire was opened on both sides and the Austrians were mowed down in heaps.

ENDICOTT SAYS RAILROADS NEED MONEY

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—Henry B. Endicott, executive manager of the state committee on public safety, testifying today at a hearing before George W. Anderson of the interstate commerce commission on petitions of New England railroads for increased freight passenger rates, declared that while the roads had fore business than they could handle they were unable to make it pay, notwithstanding that they had been placed on the most economical basis.

Mr. Endicott was introduced as a witness for the roads because of his familiarity with transportation problems by virtue of his service as arbitrator in adjusting numerous wage disputes.

"There are some items of increase which must be met," Mr. Endicott said. "I have recently been called to arbitrate wage increases, and in deciding that such increases were necessary in part I was sure that additional increases would be asked for within a short time."

"It is of the utmost importance that the United States should have good transportation facilities at this time," and we ought to have better service than at present. If a 15 per cent. increase in freight rates was granted it would add $100,000 to the shipping expense of my shoe factory, yet I do not believe that that amount would be lost to me, but on the other hand I believe that I would gain by it."

"I think the laboring man today is not getting enough to make up for the increased cost of living, and for that reason I believe that wages will be increased as well as the cost of living."

Mr. Endicott was called after Charles S. Pierce, counsel for the Boston & Maine railroad, had explained the increases proposed by the several roads. He said added income was imperative.

President Henry I. Harriman of the Boston chamber of commerce declared an increase in rates or some other means of providing additional funds for New England railroads was absolutely necessary as a war measure.

Under the proposed passenger rate schedule the cost of mileage books would be increased from 2-1/2 to 2-1/2 cents a mile, single fare tickets from 21-2 to 23-4 cents, and commutation tickets by a flat 25 per cent. The increases in class freight rates would average 15 per cent.

All of the New England states and New York were represented at the hearing. Frederick J. MacLeod and Joseph B. Eastman, members of the public service commission appearing for Massachusetts; William C. Deane for Rhode Island; Edward C. Niles, William T. Gunnison and Thomas W. D. Worthen, New Hampshire; William R. Warner, Robert C. Bacon and Walter A. Dutton, Vermont; and Benjamin F. Cleaves, John E. Bunker and William B. Skelton, Maine.

The Boston & Maine, Maine Central, New York, New Haven & Hartford, Boston & Albany, Eastern & Ancon, Central Vermont and Grand Trunk railroads were represented by counsel and appearances also were entered in behalf of the Boston chamber of commerce, William C. Deane for Rhode Island, Edward C. Niles, William T. Gunnison and Thomas W. D. Worthen, New Hampshire; William R. Warner, Robert C. Bacon and Walter A. Dutton, Vermont; and Benjamin F. Cleaves, John E. Bunker and William B. Skelton, Maine.

It was explained in opening that the petition for passenger fare increases as applied to the Central Vermont, Rutland and Grand Trunk railroads referred only to mileage tickets and that no changes were proposed in one-way fares.

ITALIAN AIRMEN IN RISKY UNDERTAKINGS

ROME, Nov. 19.—Gabriele d'Annunzio writes to a friend that he is working indefatigably with his companion airmen of the Italian army in most risky undertakings, the results of which cannot be revealed for military reasons. In the letter he says: "Like An-taeus, every time the entente falls it rises again with redoubled vigor because it represents an invincible right. Thus the Italian reverse now is causing a revival of the energies of the allies which will lead to ultimate victory."

ENDICOTT SAYS RAILROADS NEED MONEY

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—Henry B. Endicott, executive manager of the state committee on public safety, testifying today at a hearing before George W. Anderson of the interstate commerce commission on petitions of New England railroads for increased freight passenger rates, declared that while the roads had fore business than they could handle they were unable to make it pay, notwithstanding that they had been placed on the most economical basis.

Mr. Endicott was introduced as a witness for the roads because of his familiarity with transportation problems by virtue of his service as arbitrator in adjusting numerous wage disputes.

"There are some items of increase which must be met," Mr. Endicott said. "I have recently been called to arbitrate wage increases, and in deciding that such increases were necessary in part I was sure that additional increases would be asked for within a short time."

"It is of the utmost importance that the United States should have good transportation facilities at this time," and we ought to have better service than at present. If a 15 per cent. increase in freight rates was granted it would add $100,000 to the shipping expense of my shoe factory, yet I do not believe that that amount would be lost to me, but on the other hand I believe that I would gain by it."

"I think the laboring man today is not getting enough to make up for the increased cost of living, and for that reason I believe that wages will be increased as well as the cost of living."

Mr. Endicott was called after Charles S. Pierce, counsel for the Boston & Maine railroad, had explained the increases proposed by the several roads. He said added income was imperative.

President Henry I. Harriman of the Boston chamber of commerce declared an increase in rates or some other means of providing additional funds for New England railroads was absolutely necessary as a war measure.

Under the proposed passenger rate schedule the cost of mileage books would be increased from 2-1/2 to 2-1/2 cents a mile, single fare tickets from 21-2 to 23-4 cents, and commutation tickets by a flat 25 per cent. The increases in class freight rates would average 15 per cent.

All of the New England states and New York were represented at the hearing. Frederick J. MacLeod and Joseph B. Eastman, members of the public service commission appearing for Massachusetts; William C. Deane for Rhode Island; Edward C. Niles, William T. Gunnison and Thomas W. D. Worthen, New Hampshire; William R. Warner, Robert C. Bacon and Walter A. Dutton, Vermont; and Benjamin F. Cleaves, John E. Bunker and William B. Skelton, Maine.

It was explained in opening that the petition for passenger fare increases as applied to the Central Vermont, Rutland and Grand Trunk railroads referred only to mileage tickets and that no changes were proposed in one-way fares.

Children Like To Take It

"Thousands of children have worms and their parents don't know what the trouble is."

Symptoms of worms are: Drenched stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional griping, and pale about the navel. Face of children tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, slight dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Always see Dr. Trug's Ellixir on hand for such cases. It is promptly effective and the nice thing about it is that children like to take it.

Mrs. H. W. Roberts of 505 Asylum Street, Flint, Michigan, wrote to us: "Have used the Ellixir and as far as I know my little girl is cured of worms." She wrote in again later saying, "Baby is fine and I think it was your medicine that helped her."

Dr. Trug's Ellixir, the Famous Little Worm Expeller, has been on the market more than 60 years and more and more people are using it all the time to get worms, or to tone up the stomach and restore natural action of the bowels. Children like to take it. Write us.

It intends also to draw up a system of retailers' cost accounting to standardize the items to be charged up as cost of doing business.

BRITISH NAVAL VICTORY IN CATTEGAT DESCRIBED

BASE OF BRITISH GRAND FLEET, Nov. 9 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The recent naval action to the Cattegat, where the British sank a German cruiser and ten armed patrol ships, is an example of the careful planning which lies behind every move on the naval chart.

The actual fight in the Cattegat began about 7 o'clock in the morning, and was over three hours later. The German fleet behind its fortifications received the call for help but dared not take a chance—probably well knowing that any attempt to send out help would be confronted with enemies rising out of the sea from all directions. The Cattegat is a deep bay lying between Denmark and Sweden and leading out through the Skagerrak into the North sea. The German auxiliary cruiser Marie was leading the fleet of patrol boats. Her captain, Redd Lauterbach, was wounded but reached the Danish shore safely. His ship was "suddenly attacked" he said in an interview with a Danish newspaperman afterward, "by a fleet of British destroyers, and the shells fired by them descended with such rapidity that the men on the Marie were almost unable to use the guns. Only a few shots were fired before the ship was a mass of flames. His report that he fired his guns as long as possible is denied by his own men, who declare that Lauterbach was 'seized with funk' as soon as the enemy appeared and that not a single shot was fired from the Marie's guns.

Fight on Germany's "Doorstep"

Presumably the Marie was making her way towards the trade route between Norway and Scotland, in hopes of repeating the successful German attack on the British convoy on Oct. 17. The British commander concentrated his fire first of all on the Marie and then detached his fastest vessels to round up the escorting patrol vessels. This was thoroughly done after a hunt lasting nearly three hours. This action, it should be remembered, occurred in waters which the Germans regard as practically one of their "inland seas."

An interesting comparison might be made between this clean victory by the British destroyers and the on-and-run raid by the German light cruisers on a British convoy on Oct. 17. The Germans sent out two of their fastest cruisers in the darkness, struck their blow in nervous haste, in the early morning hours, not even pausing to rescue a single life of hundreds of combatants and non-combatants, then ran away northward to spend the remaining hours of daylight in hiding, and when night fell dash down the Norwegian coast and thus returned home without being intercepted.

AMERICANS PLAN TO TRAP GERMANS FAIL

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Nov. 20.—(By The Associated Press).—Only the fact that the Germans failed to venture into No. Man's Land on a recent night saved them from an American surprise. One hundred and sixty men of the first battalions to enter the trenches were given special training and after being transported to the front, crawled across No. Man's Land and took positions in front of and in the German wire entanglements at a point where it had been discovered the enemy came out every night.

Each man had been trained to a special task and the entire unit had rehearsed the part it intended to play under conditions similar to that in front of the German lines. The Americans reached the position soon after dark and remained in waiting all night, but not one German appeared. The plan was to allow several groups of ten to fifteen Germans to emerge and meet at a rendezvous. Then the Americans would fall on the enemy and repay them fully for recent trench raids.

A cold which a soldier had caught in the trenches brought him a wound in the hand and gave warning to a German patrol of an ambush on another night. An American patrol had arranged an ambush near a shell-riddled farm house in No. Man's Land. Several of the Americans had colds and coughs but managed to control them. Finally when the shadowy forms of an enemy patrol were seen approaching, one of the Americans coughed. The enemy patrol promptly disappeared towards its own lines, from which there soon afterward came a hail of machine gun bullets, one hitting the man who had coughed.

LOWELL MAN WANTED FOR MURDER

The local police have received several telegrams from Sheriff C. E. Dunn of Aroostook county, Me., offering a reward for the apprehension of one Alex Moran, 17 years of age, said to be a former resident of this city. Moran is wanted for the alleged murder of James Tozier, an aged farmer of Sherman, Me. A reward of $50 is offered.

Moran is described as being 17 years old, has dark hair, is five feet, 7 inches in height and when last seen wore a gray muskwa and cap. The local officials say that they have not heard of him before.

According to the story told, Moran last Lowell a few months ago and had been employed by Tozier in picking potatoes. Last Friday it is alleged that he returned to Sherman after a short absence and drove to the house of his former employer in a hired automobile. Upon reaching the house he asked the driver to wait for him. A little later, it is said, he returned to the auto and requested the driver to bring him back to the railroad station. He took a southbound train and that is the last that has been heard of him.

Tozier was found late Saturday lying on the upper floor of his home. Just before he died he claimed that he was attacked by Moran. An autopsy showed that Tozier's skull had been fractured by some flat instrument.

ELOPES WITH STEPMOTHER

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—Congetta Sardanio, an attractive woman of middle age, is at the Charles street jail, pending investigation by federal authorities into her alleged elopement from Italy nearly four years ago. The information was obtained in the course of a hearing yesterday before Judge Duff in the central court. Her accuser is Giuseppe Arisco, with whom it is alleged she fled from her home and husband, but he is now pursuing her for eloping from Middletown, Ct., scarcely a fortnight ago, with Giuseppe's son, Michele Arisco. With the father hot on the trail, the chase led to a Richmond street house, where the son and Mrs. Sardanio were arrested by Sgt. Thomas J. McTiernan of the Hanover street station. Deportation stars in the face the Sardanio woman when she is again brought before the court, Friday next, while the Ariscos—father and son—may be ordered back by the Italian government to fight the Teutons.

Mr. Lawrence's body was found by a hotel watchman lying crushed on the pavement of the rear court yard of the hotel, at 6:30 o'clock this morning.

In the note which was found in his room, Mr. Lawrence said:

"I cannot stand the pressure any longer. I have tried repeatedly to resist the feeling, but could not overcome it. I am sorry to annoy my friends, but the pressure is too great and I see no relief but to do what I am doing. I regret annoying the hotel people, but I cannot help it."

"Hundreds of thousands of barrels of flour can be saved by housewives if they will buy bakers' bread. In up-to-date bake shops the correct temperature is maintained while the dough is rising. In home kitchens this is impossible. The door opens, a cold draught enters, and the dough falls. Then it is a case of Humpty Dumpty. Nothing can save that batch of dough from becoming soggy bread.

Bake shops, by modern contrivances, avoid wastes of dough. They can produce more bread per barrel of flour than housewives can. And bakers' bread is light. It toasts. Home-made bread won't. The crusts of bakers' bread can be easily dried, rolled and used. Your home-made crusts are too heavy for this.

Women must therefore do less home baking. Then they can begin today to save wheat. Wheat will help win the war. Now is the time to act.

ALLIED WAR COUNCIL

It was ex-Premier Asquith who led the attack against Premier Lloyd George in the house of commons, on the announcement of the inter-allied war council. Asquith should be the last man to attack the present premier who shows conspicuous courage, the very thing that most of all Asquith lacked. It was his cowardice that threw Ireland into a state of turmoil when he interposed his authority to veto an act of parliament giving Ireland home rule. He feared that General French and a few other military officials would bolt, if he allowed the act to be put into operation over the protest of Ulster.

In spite of all protests from political enemies and provincial statesmen, Premier George has carried his point and hereafter, the direction of the war will rest to a great extent with the inter-allied war council. Its function will be to direct how best the combined forces will be used and distributed to inflict the heaviest blows on the enemy and to avert defeat at any point so far as that is possible.

In fine it will mean a thorough coordination of all the forces engaged as if they were supplied by one country and directed from a single headquarters.

Premier George stated that there were two dangers to be guarded against. One is the submarine, which has been already placed under control. The other is the lack of united action among the allies.

The plan has already been adopted and not only England, but France, Italy and the United States are in it. Common sense would at once dictate the wisdom and even the extreme necessity of such a policy in view of all that has happened.

Premier George has had the courage to sweep away the provincialism and the national selfishness that have been operating to the injury of the allies and bringing one defeat after another. The allies are not engaged in a number of separate wars, but in a joint war in which all the belligerents must act in perfect harmony for the great aim to be accomplished, which is the defeat of Germany.

At the present moment the allies cannot say that they have had the best of the war, and unless they change their policy and unite as one nation against the enemy, they may not be able to change the situation in their favor for several years. The debacle of Russia taken in conjunction with the disaster to Italy has given Germany fresh confidence.

Had the United States not gone into the war the allies would have been beaten ere now, and Germany would be preparing to wage war against the United States to complete her conquest of the world.

THE BROTHERHOODS AGAIN

The railroads turn over their labor troubles to President Wilson to be settled as he pleases. Verily, the president must have his hands full with these industrial disputes which either should never happen or else should be settled without being thrown upon the president's shoulders.

The brotherhoods are out again for more money, and again the railroads assert they cannot meet the demands made upon them and continue in business without an increase of freight rates. Their claim is doubtless justified, and yet the transportation systems of the country must be kept in operation if the war preparations are not to be abandoned.

What can the president do? Will the brotherhoods yield their demands at the behest of the president as a patriotic duty? Oh no! That is not their policy. Rather would they tie up the entire transportation systems of the country if their demands are not granted, and wholly regardless of consequences. That has been their policy in the past, and there is no indication of any change in their methods of getting what they want.

All such demands should be submitted to arbitration by both sides to the controversy and some arrangement must be made to prevent the recurrence of such troubles while the war continues. If the wages of the engineers, conductors, trainmen and brakemen be increased now, then a corresponding increase in freight rates must follow. So the cost of living will continue to soar.

It is right that all the railroad crafts should have fair wages, and some method of adjustment should be provided that will not leave them free to paralyze the nation's preparations for war if their demands are not met at the very time and in the manner they may dictate.

GOMPERS' GREAT VICTORY

The American Federation of Labor has gone on record in support of President Wilson in the war by a vote of five to one. The opposition showed that there are pacifists and pro-Germans in the ranks, but it was buried in the avalanche of votes that followed the able speeches of loyal leaders, including President Gompers.

Mr. Gompers deserves credit for his keen foresight in uniformly, throughout his entire career, opposing socialism. The Federation of Labor is bitterly opposed by the socialists, who constitute the worst internal menace to the nation.

President Gompers, in his speech in favor of the resolutions on which the convention split, showed that since the Detroit convention, some years ago, when the socialists tried to capture the federation, they have steadily fought the organization.

"They have," said Mr. Gompers, "started the Western Labor union, the American Labor union, and the I.W.W., and finally they started the so-called People's council. In the one instance it was rivalry to the American Federation of Labor, and in the last it was hostility to the republic of the United States."

At the conclusion of Mr. Gompers' speech, the resolutions were carried by a vote of 21,579 to 402.

Now, the A. F. of L. stands squarely in support of President Wilson's policy which, we presume, precludes strikes for the duration of the war.

President Gompers is to be congratulated on his success in overcoming all opposition in leading the labor hosts in the right path and in overcoming the elements which would oppose the government and thereby threaten the very liberties of this nation purchased by such heroic sacrifice.

HOOVER FINDS THE WAY

Although congress exempted food retailers from the food bill license provisions, thereby apparently tying the food administration's hands in any effective price regulation, Herbert Hoover has found a way to act directly in forcing retailers as well as storage men and wholesalers to accept moderate profits.

Congress, of course, in exempting the retailer, thought it was dodging political reprisal from this great body of dealers. Hoover, however, has no political axe to grind. His sole aim is to spare the mass of consumers excessive war prices.

He has no authority over retailers doing less than $100,000 of business a year. He cannot say to them "you must charge only a fair profit." But when he finds a retailer charging more than a fair profit, or buying up excessive stocks for speculation, he can say to the packer, storage man or wholesaler: "You must not sell to this man."

And that is precisely what he is going to do.

Retailers found buying prices or charging unreasonable profits will find themselves cut off absolutely from their sources of supply. It is the small dealers who have been charging the most exorbitant prices. If caught, they will be put out of business until the end of the war.

Which looks as though Hoover had found a way.

MONEY WELL SPENT

"One dollar spent in right formation is better than a hundred spent for reformation later."

That argument, one of many advanced by the congress of mothers, has been influential in creating a widespread public sentiment for the best type of kindergarten training. It has resulted in much successful kindergarten legislation.

But let us not stop with the kindergarten. Let us continue spending dollars to save hundreds all during the formative period of our children's lives.

It is cheaper, yes, and better, to spend dollars on neighborhood social centers, playgrounds, recreation spots, reading rooms, school gymnasiums and swimming tanks than hundreds of dollars on reform schools, reformatory farms, jails and penitentiaries.

SEEN AND HEARD

The absence of street cars in Fletcher street will not increase property values in that district.

When a steam railroad or a street railway announce a change in schedule it simply means that a long suffering public is made to suffer some more.

Put It Up to the Clerk

Her eyebrows, real or camouflage, were so arched that they gave to her face a look of perpetual surprise. She wore a big yellow chrysanthemum on her breast, and her hair was as yellow as the flowers' petals, as told by the Boston Traveler. She fitted into a dog store in Boylston street. A clerk almost broke his leg trying to reach her first. She looked about in delightful confusion, and then asked, with a smile:

"Can you suggest a good name for a yellow cat?"

A Proud Mother

At a 21st birthday party a mother was raising the talents of her son, and, being anxious to make him appear at his best before the company present, asked him to show his prizes. One of the guests, picking up the best of the articles, said:

"And what did you win this prize for?"

"O, that was for running," said the proud mother.

"And who presented it to him?" asked the guest.

"We did," said the mother.

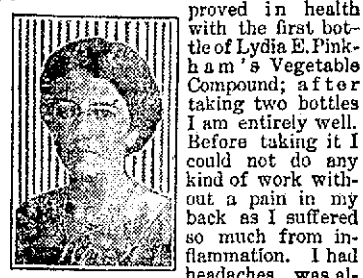

"How was that?" asked the guest.

"Why, you see," said the proud

DANISH WOMAN REGAINS HEALTH

Tells Everybody What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Her.

Chicago, Ill.—"It gives me great pleasure to let others know that I improved in health with the first bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; after taking two bottles I am entirely well. Before taking it I could not do any kind of work without a pain in my back as I suffered so much from inflammation. I had headaches, was all ways tired and no appetite. Words cannot express my gratitude for the good your medicine has done me, and through me to my family. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women suffering from female troubles, particularly to Danish women."—Mrs. META DAMGAARD-MATZAN, 2137 Kimball Ave., Chicago, Ill.

It is positively true that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

Many a last winter's garment has been slightly made over and is being worn this year by the woman who cannot afford to have a new one made, and would rather make the sacrifice so that she may devote her sewing time to help the sons and brothers of so many American women, now serving their flag on the battlefield, than do it herself.

It takes five eggs for a custard pie. So we don't have any when eggs are high.

For it takes five pies for our Families. Counting my brothers and sisters and me.

And my mother's Paw and my father's Paw.

And my father's father and mother-in-law.

And 'twould take five families big as ours.

And all of 'em gifted with extra powers.

In wind and muscle and arms and legs.

To earn the money to buy the eggs. And if all five families wanted pie, With milk so scarce and eggs so high, How many pennies would that be?

My teacher says, she says to me! I hate Arithmetic, don't you?

And I wish this blamed old war was through.

A Prize Winning Sweater

Speaking of sweaters and such knitted by women, Mrs. Maria L. Wilbur of Fall River last summer knitted a khaki-colored sweater, helmet and wristers which are not only giving pleasure to one of Uncle Sam's soldiers, but which paid for itself and the yarn to make others several times over, and made quite a reputation for itself into the bargain. At the urging of her friends, but somewhat doubtfully for herself, Mrs. Wilbur exhibited the outfit she had knitted at the Newport county fair in September. There was a goodly array of such articles there, but the Fall River sweater and helmet received first prize. When the Lincoln park fair was held the articles were put on exhibition there, and again they won the first prize. From the prize money thus received Mrs. Wilbur purchased the wool for several more, all of which, including the father of the family, have gone to make comfortable men in the army, including her grandson, Robert, and the men drafted from her son-in-law's munufactory. Whether they know it or not the boys who wear those sweaters have something to boast of.

Swells Seamstress' Savings

Business is good for the seamstress. That the war has not the effect of depressing, but instead increasing the business of the seamstress to such a volume that orders are on hand for the next six months, was indicated by a local needle and thread artist.

"My business is so good I cannot promise to take work until after the holidays," said this seamstress. "It is not only a few of us who are busy, but all of us, and business will be good as long as we are engaged in the war."

"The lady of moderate means who heretofore has been doing her own sewing is now knitting for the soldiers abroad, and is turning the needlework she formerly did herself over to the dressmaker, with the result that she is swamped with orders." Many a last winter's garment has been slightly made over and is being worn this year by the woman who cannot afford to have a new one made, and would rather make the sacrifice so that she may devote her sewing time to help the sons and brothers of so many American women, now serving their flag on the battlefield, than do it herself.

UNITED STATES CUTS OFF SUPPLIES TO RUSSIA

The cessation of shipments is temporary only, if a stable government is formed in the United States can recognize it. If the Bolsheviks gain control and pursue their program calling for a peace with Germany, the embargo will be permanent. The embargo will be permanent for the reasons alleged. The Bolsheviks want to keep the embargo tight, as the United States then would fear that supplies might go to the Bolsheviks.

The provisional Russian government was given credits amounting in all to $50,000,000, of which $12,000,000 already had been advanced. Much of this money has been spent in supplying the Russian army with food and clothing. The Russian government has been given vessels for its transport. Shipment will be held up by denial of bunker coal to the ships.

Conditions in Russia still are far from clear. The state department yesterday had no additional despatches from Ambassador Francis at Petrograd but unofficial messages coming from Petrograd that General Kadishin, headman of the Don Cossacks, who held the master hand in Russia through domination of the country's coal and bread supply in the Cossack region, was marching with an army on Voronezh, 200 miles south of Moscow.

Passengers arriving at the Swedish frontier from Russia also reported that soldiers were parading the Petrograd streets bearing banners demanding a constitutional assembly of all Russia and declaring that the Bolshevik regime was more tyrannical than that of Nicholas. The passengers believed the present revolutionary government must fall through lack of support of the principal parties.

The only official despatch reaching the state department yesterday from Russia announced that John F. Stevens, head of the American railway commission in Russia, had left Petrograd for Vladivostok in connection with his work of rehabilitating the Russian railway system.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 21.—Characterizing the refusal of Gov. McCall of Massachusetts to honor his requisition for the return to West Virginia, for trial, of John Johnson, a negro, charged with attacking a white girl in this city, as constituting "a reflection upon the state of West Virginia and showing a deplorable lack of knowledge of it and its people, Gov. John J. Cornwell late yesterday made public a letter which he had written to the Massachusetts executive.

Before receiving Gov. McCall's letter declining to honor the requisition Gov. Cornwell had written to the Massachusetts governor a personal letter guaranteeing that no harm should come to Johnson and declaring "there is absolutely no danger of Johnson's being lynched or otherwise mistreated."

Gov. Cornwell's Letter

Gov. Cornwell's letter to Gov. McCall follows:

"I have your letter declining to honor my requisition for the return of John Johnson, now in your city, charged with rape in this country.

"With all due respect to the representative of your state, who visited this city for the alleged purpose of making an investigation of the case, I am compelled to say that he evidently misled you as to the facts in this matter.

"The suggestion that exaggerated reports of the crime have been generally circulated in the community and that, on account of the nature of these reports and the race of the defendant, there exists a prejudice which would be difficult, if not impossible, of control by the most upright judge, is not only unwarranted and untrue, but is a reflection on this state and its courts, which I very frankly and respectfully resent. It is not justified by any real or alleged crime committed in this state since its organization.

"The prosecuting attorney requested the privilege of presenting West Virginia's side of the case at the coming hearing of Johnson in Massachusetts and was assured it was not necessary to do so, but when he insisted upon making that appearance, he was told he would be advised when the matter was to be again heard. No such advice was received, and the prosecuting attorney, in the opinion of the state representative.

BRITISH CALL FOR BIG U. S. ARMY IN FRANCE

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Premier Lloyd George opened the Anglo-American council of war yesterday with a speech which the conference described as having been an important statement. The speech, like the rest of the proceedings, is being kept secret; but one conferee said the spirit of great earnestness and unity permeated the meeting, and that the most important practical results were achieved. In the course of his speech Mr. Lloyd George said:

"Assuming that the submarine situation does not get worse, the easing of the position of the allies depends entirely upon the dates on which the American program of launching 6,000,000 tons of shipping promised for 1918 comes into practical effect."

CONSTIPATION CAUSES OBSTINATE HEADACHES

When your head aches you will usually find the bowels have been inactive, and if you relieve the intestinal organs of the fermenting congestion of stomach waste, foul gases and bile, the head is relieved immediately.

Remember this the next time you suffer from headache. The combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold by druggists under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is highly recommended as a gentle laxative that acts easily and quickly, without gripping or discomfort. It contains no opiate, narcotic, or habit-forming drug, is pleasant to the taste, and a most effective household remedy. Mothers find it especially desirable as a laxative for children. You can buy Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from your druggist for fifty cents. Get a bottle and have it in the house when needed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. D. ## American Services "Invaluable"

The premier thanked the mission for "the invaluable services the United States navy has already rendered, not only in protecting commerce, but in dealing with the submarine, for vital assistance in financing the war and for effective help in many other ways. With reference to the question of supplies, Mr. Lloyd George assured the mission that the most drastic food restrictions were about to be imposed upon the people of the British Isles. The conference lasted an hour and a half, the members having frequent recourse to the mass of statistics and official documents at their command. There was little formality about the proceedings. Lord Reading started them by explaining the purposes of the meeting and a general discussion followed. At the close the conference reported that satisfactory progress had been made.

All Britain's Leaders Present

The American representatives were Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, chief of staff; Admiral William S. Benson, chief of naval operations; Thomas Nelson Perkins, member of the priority board; Dr. Alonso Taylor, representing the food controller; Bainbridge Colby of the United States shipping board; Oscar T. Crosby, assistant secretary of the treasury; and Vance McCormick, chairman of the war trade board. The British representatives were Premier Lloyd George, Foreign Minister Balfour, Viscount Milner, George Macdonald, and Earl Curzon of Kedleston, constituting the war cabinet; Lord Reading and Lord Northcliffe; the Earl of Derby, Gen. Sir William R. Robertson and Lieut. Gen. Jan C. Smuts, representing the army; Sir Eric Geddes and Admiral Sir John R. Jellicoe, representing the navy; and Maj. John I. Baird, Baron Rhonda, Lord Robert Cecil, Walter Hume Long and Dr. Christopher Addison, representing respectively aviation, food, blockade, petroleum and munitions.

The scene of this, the first and epoch-making council of all the English-speaking nations from the four quarters of the earth to make joint war upon a common enemy, was the dingy old residence in Downing street which has served the prime ministers of many generations as both home and office, where the destinies of the British empire have been shaped since the days of the American Revolution.

The general work of the meeting consisted in the taking of stock of the resources and needs of both countries and to some extent, of the continental allies.

The conference met at noon as had been planned. Lord Reading was the first to arrive. He had a five-minute chat with Premier Lloyd George and then prepared to greet the distinguished men from America and the British participants.

Some of these came on foot and others in motors driven by khaki-clad chauffeurs. There was no demonstration by the sightseers, only a small group to whom the time of the meeting was known being present.

Lord Robert Cecil, the minister of blockade, walked unaccompanied from the foreign office. The crowds displayed deep interest in Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, chief of staff of the American army, and Admiral William S. Benson.

Everybody asked for Col. E. M. House, head of the American mission, but Col. House did not attend the meeting, his secretary, Gordon Auchincloss, representing him.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
"The Telephone Tangle," appearing at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week is one of the most engrossing of novelty comedies. It is absolutely different in its style, and it is staged in an exceptionally clever way. The comedy efforts of Joe Bennett and Claude West are rewarded with much applause, while the "hello" girl offering of Edith May is fetching. Nothing of the kind has appeared here in a long time than that of the Misses Campbell, who are real Broadway favorites. Their impromptu musicals are something which is wholly worth while, and the two singers and players offer some of their best song numbers. McMahon and Chappell in a new kind of comedy called Why Humpty Missed the Train, are generally applauded for their efforts, and the Great Howard, ventriloquist, has one of the best patriotic finales seen in a local theatre this season. It's a corker. The bottle-axe juggling of the Tuscano Bros., and the comedy, singing and dancing of Brown & Barrows are also thoroughly enjoyed. This week's picture feature is "Nearly Married," with pretty Madge Kennedy in the principal role. The Hearst-Pathé News pictures are most instructive.

OPERA HOUSE
Good comedy, well presented and handled in an intelligent manner, invariably proves enjoyable, entertaining, and that's why this week's production of "Arms and the Girl" by the new Emerson players at the Opera House is giving thorough satisfaction to the large number of patrons who are daily visiting this playhouse. It is the first opportunity Lowell theatregoers have had to see the players in this particular brand of entertainment, and judging from the enthusiastic manner in which they are being received, there's no doubt the slightest question but what they are pleasing immensely. The piece is a clever concoction of good humor, interesting character and an absorbing story. The authors have built around the actions of a couple of young Americans, a young man and young woman, who have been marooned at a Belgian inn at the time the Germans capture the village, a series of situations and conditions that combine in making good, wholesome and thoroughly entertaining fun. One can't help liking the general mixture of mirth and action that are blended together in three acts. Miss Rotch and Mr. Dumville, who portray the characters of the young couple, are indeed clever, while their support is many degrees above the average generally accorded a local troupe. The staging of the play is also carried out in the same high standard established by the presentation. Seats are now selling for the remaining performances. Order quick or you will be disappointed. Tel. 281.

THE STRAND
Miss June Elvidge and Montague Love, two of the world's famous motion picture stars, will appear in person at The Strand on Thursday afternoon and night.

Their coming is being looked forward to with anticipations of real pleasure by the thousands of film lovers of Lowell and vicinity and no doubt large audiences will be on hand to welcome their visit here. Miss Elvidge is well remembered for her sensational successes in some of the biggest picture productions during the past two seasons. Her appearance in that wonderfully interesting photo-play, "The Whip," will be favorably recalled by the large majority of patrons, while Mr. Love's name is so actively identified with most of the big productions of recent date that little need be said of his popularity among the patrons. Both are to visit Camp Devens Thursday morning and will call at city hall at noon to pay a visit to Mayor O'Donnell. They will appear at the matinee and night performances at The Strand and will hold receptions after their talk on "The Manufacture of Motion Pictures." All those desiring may personally meet both stars.

This is the last day in which to see Theda Bara in her latest and by far her best production, "The Rose of Blood." This presentation has as its central theme a woman, such as was responsible for the famous Legion of Death in Russia, who has identified herself with the revolutionary movement, and willingly gives the life of

CLIPPER A. C. FOOTBALL TEAM OF LAWRENCE WANTS RETURN ENGAGEMENT

The manager of the Clipper A.C. football team of Lawrence has written a lengthy letter to the sporting editor of The Sun protesting against the so-called "dirty work" of certain members of the Indian team of Lowell in the game played last Saturday afternoon. Incidentally, he sends broadcast a challenge that the Indians visit the Clipper club in Lawrence and play a return game on the latter's own grounds. Evidently the next move is up to the Indian management.

LOWELL FIVE DEFEATS ALL STARS OF BOSTON

Capt. Herb Cote again led the Lowell Five to victory last evening in Associate hall when the fast local basketball team defeated the much heralded All Stars of Boston by the safe margin of 24 to 13.

It was easily the best contest which has been seen on the local floor this season. A fair-sized crowd, somewhat depleted because of the interest in the political nominations, was on hand to urge on Cote's men at every opportunity and the five certainly responded. The All Stars, who had defeated Lowell twice last season, presented a formidable looking lineup as far as avoidable went and when the opening whistle set the two coteries in action it was soon evident that very little of the weight was lodged in the feet of the visitors from the Hub. They presented the usually invincible combination of weight and speed. However, Manager Murphy's charges "went to it" in a game style and in the time the second period was over there was little doubt of the eventual outcome.

Cote must be declared elected the individual star of the game because when all the ballots were tabulated it was found that he swept the district with a total of eight baskets. And many of them were of the hard-to-make type. Cote shot from positions anywhere near the basket and although he did not make every shot his total shows what taking a chance combined with a little real skill will do to pile up a score.

"Bucky" Lew played his usual good game and was especially strong on the defensive. His blocking prevented the All Stars from adding to their constellation of baskets. Finn, the capable Lowell centre, usually sent the ball Lowellward in the opening scrimmage and to prove his value to the team he chucked the spheroid in the basket four times, giving Lowell eight of her points thereby. The final period of the game was prolific with good things from a Lowell viewpoint. At the end of the second period the game stood in favor of the locals by the fairly safe margin of 21 to 10, but to make sure of the contest the quintet got into the game right away and piled up 12 additional points on goals besides one point which the All Stars forfeited because of the tactics in the fouling line. Just two minutes before the game ended Joe Foley replaced Allison at right back and Joe showed the opposition that he was "there" from the start. He marched up the hall with the ball and within 10 seconds after coming on the floor he had shot at the Lowell basket and all but made it. Throughout the remainder of the game he seemed to be everywhere at once. Cote also made a nice shot in this period. He got mixed up in a scrimmage in the right hand Lowell maneuvering he managed to get one hand free and tossed the ball into the basket. It was one of the prettiest shots seen this season.

The other local men put up their usual steady game and for the visitors "Paddy" Grant played a star game as did Chapman and Nehmer. In fact the whole team showed the earmarks of a star aggregation but the locals were just a little better. The game was a singularly clean one as the foul column shows and real dirty work was not in evidence at any time. "Bill" Wilson ran the game in his usual energetic manner.

It was announced that the Lowell Five would play the Brophy Five next Tuesday evening in Associate hall.

The lineup and score:

MITCHELL BOYS' SCHOOL TRIMS CONCORD HIGH

The Mitchell Boys' school football team won from the Concord high school team yesterday afternoon at Billerica by the score of 12 to 0. The game was well fought and the visitors displayed a lot of gameness. They were outclassed by the Billerica booters, however. "Roundie" Roane, of Lowell high school football fame, is coaching the Mitchell boys, and the results of his efforts are being shown as the season progresses. Yesterday's lineup and score were as follows:

MITCHELL BOYS
Cote, r
Costello, lf

Allison, Foley, rb

Score: Mitchell Boys 12; Concord high 0. Touchdowns, Cragin and Isenbeck. Referee, Goddard; umpire, Rockwood; headlineman, Hemmaway, and thers, Peckham and Leighton. Time: Four 8-minute periods. The Mitchell Boys' Alumni association will hold its annual reunion next Saturday, and it is expected that a large number of the former members of the school will be in attendance. A football game, a demonstration in the gymnasium and a dinner will be the features of the reunion.

LANGFORD AND WILLS BARRED
TOLEDO, O., Nov. 21.—The local boxing commission at a special meeting last night, made a ruling barring Sam Langford and Harry Wills, negro heavyweights, from further participation in bouts in a Toledo ring. The two men appeared here a week ago, and the commission ruled that the bout was not on the square.

WITH THE PIN WOBBLERS ON LOCAL ALLEYS

Great enthusiasm was displayed in the games in the City league last night but high scores were lacking. The game between the Kimballs and Middlesbrough proved to be a good one, it being a case of "60-60". The Kimballs lost the first string by the narrow margin of five pins, but dropped the second by a good score, but dropped the third, but the "Painters" got the total. McQuade of the Kimballs was high man with a total of 346.

While the contest between the White Ways and Crescents was a close one, the former team took all four points. The Highland Daylights took four points from the Merrimacks. Hall with a total of 333 was high man. The Carrs took three points from the Quins after losing the first string, but the game between the Spindle City and Jewels proved to be a walkover for the former team, which took all four points.

LOWELL CHAUFFEUR'S LICENSE REVOKED

Special to The Sun
STATE HOUSE, Boston, Nov. 21.—As a result of his recent conviction on a charge of violating the automobile laws, Arthur Verfallio of Lowell has been notified that his chauffeur's license has been revoked by the Massachusetts highway commission. Verfallio was recently found guilty of failing to stop at a red light and making a U-turn without stopping and making a U-turn without stopping.

In an accident which caused injury to the property of another, and under the provisions of the commission is compelled to revoke his license. Unless the judge before whom he was convicted recommends otherwise, the revocation will remain in effect for a period of one year.

BILLY CARPENTER, FANCY ROLLER-SKATING CHAMPION, AT THE ROLLAWAY
Private William Carpenter of Camp Devens, Ayer, who is better known throughout the country as "Billy" Carpenter, champion fancy roller skater, will appear at the Rollaway rink tomorrow night and Saturday night, in a series of exhibitions. He was granted permission from his officers at the cantonment to perform for his home town folks before going "over the top" to the front. Unless the judge at least, and large crowds are expected to turn out to see the "champ" in his well remembered act. Carpenter's work here a year ago will be remembered by Lowell people, for he gave one of the most remarkable exhibitions on the rollers ever seen in this city. He whirled rapidly and crowds many feet into his act. He will give "all that is in him" this week, and as an added attraction will attempt to break his spinning record. A large number of the "boys" at camp plan to come to town to see the exhibitions.

HIGH BASEBALL DEAL
CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—President Charles H. Weeghman of the Chicago National league today confirmed a report that an important deal for the exchange or purchase of a number of players had been virtually completed.

PASTORS OF LOCAL PROTESTANT CHURCHES PLAN TO DO OWN EVANGELISTIC WORK
A personal workers' institute was opened last evening at the Kirk Street church under the auspices of the Lowell Federation of Churches. The purpose of the institute is to enlist workers from the various churches in a great evangelistic movement which is being started. Instead of bringing in an evangelist from the outside, it is planned to have the laymen of the various churches do the work themselves. Last evening's meeting was the first of a series to be held. Another will be held this evening at the Kirk Street church and the speaker will be Rev. A. Z. Conrad, pastor of the Park Street church.

The speaker last evening was Dean I. J. Binney of the Boston University School of Theology. Rev. William F. English, Jr., chairman of the evangelistic committee of the federation, presided and Rev. George E. Pickard, the secretary, introduced the speaker.

Dean Binney spoke on "The Christian Life" and spoke of the various ways in which one might define a Christian life. He urged his listeners to get away from the worship of efficiency and pay a little attention to their own souls. In conclusion he said that he did not see how one could get by a sense of the obligation of each individual man to do his individual bit for the next man.

BIG OPPORTUNITIES IN THE AIR SERVICE
Corp. Frank Cox of the Regular army recruiting office in Central street has received a bulletin from the general recruiting service of the army which explains to a degree the opportunities which await eligible men in the air service of the Regular army. The bulletin is quoted in part below:

The skilled American workmen who are being selected from all over the country to form the great backbone organization behind the American air service in France, are supplied with a complete statement of details as to the chosen of men eligible and as to the procedure for entrance to the service. Practically all the men selected will be furnished into submersible for service abroad as close behind the lines as the airplane can be built and in immediate touch with the great American army.

Men from all sorts of trades are eligible with 47 trades especially mentioned running all the way from sail makers to gas works employees. Upon these men will rest the responsibility of keeping every plane ready for instant and constant service, for launching the engines, for lighting four or five miles in the air, for making sure that no alarm with his costly skill and equipment comes to grief through any mechanical flaw which human care and ingenuity can avoid.

Practically two-thirds of the men will be made non-commissioned officers, sergeants, first class, and corporals, the highest non-commissioned ranks in the army. Each man will be assigned to that class of work which his skill best fits him to do in order that both he and the service may be assured of the greatest value to the country from his work.

Corp. Cox at the army station in Central street would be very glad to talk over the opportunities offered in the air service and to advise men as to the special branch which they should enter.

Recent enlistments in the Regular army include the following names: Frank A. Goss, 555 Merrimack street, engineers corps; Charles C. Fogg, 19 Robbins street, quartermaster corps; Martin Merhan, 252 Fletcher street, infantry; Joseph J. Delphy, Colones, N. Y., engineer corps.

The following Lowell men were assigned "red ink" numbers at a supplementary drawing at the state house yesterday afternoon: Last evening's meeting was the first of a series to be held. Another will be held this evening at the Kirk Street church and the speaker will be Rev. A. Z. Conrad, pastor of the Park Street church.

Dean Binney spoke on "The Christian Life" and spoke of the various ways in which one might define a Christian life. He urged his listeners to get away from the worship of efficiency and pay a little attention to their own souls. In conclusion he said that he did not see how one could get by a sense of the obligation of each individual man to do his individual bit for the next man.

SCHOOL CHILDREN WERE LOOKING FOR SUGAR

Several hundred children of the public schools called at city hall this morning in an endeavor to get what they called "their share" of the curd of sugar that has been ordered by the mayor, and which is expected in this city today or tomorrow. It seems that a rumor to the effect that the sugar had arrived and would be distributed at city hall this morning was circulated last evening with the result that before city hall opened this morning several hundred children had gathered on the lawn in front of the building and they patiently awaited the arrival of the city messenger.

When informed of their mission the city messenger told them that it would be useless to wait for the sugar had not arrived. The boys and girls, however, would not take his word for it and they made a rush into the interior of the building and invaded the mayor's reception room and it was not until after considerable efforts on the part of the city messenger and the mayor's secretary that the children were finally convinced that there was no sugar in sight and formal announcement of the distribution of the sweet stuff when it arrives would be made through the local press. Today is visiting day in some of the public schools and that accounts for the great number of children who paid a visit to the granite building.

Petition for Recount
Shortly after formal announcement of the nomination of Dr. Mignault and Mr. Thompson for mayor had been made in the city clerk's office at city hall last evening, friends of John J. Hillbride, who was beaten by 35 votes by Mr. Thompson, secured a petition for a recount and they started out immediately to get the signatures of ten voters from each ward. The petitioners have until Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock to file their petition with the city clerk.

Last Opportunity
Voters whose names do not appear on the check list are given their last opportunity today to register for the city election, which will be held Dec. 11. In order to give every man a chance to register the office of the registrars at city hall will be kept open from 12 o'clock this noon until 10 o'clock this evening.

Mayor Will Speak
The C.M.A.C. will display a service flag on its building in Pawtucket street Sunday afternoon and the event will be marked with appropriate exercises.

MAYOR O'DONNELL IS A GOOD LOSER

Relative to the result of the primary election held in this city yesterday, Mayor O'Donnell this morning gave out the following statement:

"The voters of Lowell have made their choice, and I most cheerfully abide by their decision. I congratulate the winners, Dr. Mignault and Mr. Thompson, upon their success, and Mr. Hillbride upon the splendid vote received by him on the occasion of his first attempt in a municipal contest. Though unsuccessful, he may feel proud of the excellent showing made by him. I sincerely thank all my friends for their fine support of my candidacy, not only at this time, but in the past. I feel that I have been unusually honored by my fellow-citizens in being accorded four years as mayor of Lowell, and the result of the primaries finds me without regrets or threats, and I ask my friends to accept the result as I have accepted it and make no criticisms."

RED STAR ANIMAL RELIEF TO WORK FOR HORSES

Horsemen from all parts of New York state will hold a conference in New York city on Monday next, Nov. 26, to consider questions concerning the horse in relation to military and civil conditions. Many of the best-known horsemen in the state have definitely promised to attend the conference, amongst them Mr. Nathan Straus, New York; S. S. Toman, New York; Horatio N. Bain, Poughkeepsie; Ernest I. White, Syracuse, (brother of former Governor Horace White), and many others. Dr. William O. Stillman, director general of the American Red Star Animal Relief, Albany, has been specially invited to speak upon horse conditions in relation to the army and the great need which exists for a better type of army horses.

The conference is called by the New York state association of horse-

EXPERT ANALYZES WAR'S EFFECT ON WOMEN SOLDIERS

EDITOR'S NOTE—Lewis S. Moriarty, who makes this character analysis of a Russian woman soldier to discover the effect upon the race of woman's entry onto the battlefield, is one of the most authoritative physiognomists and psychologists of the day. He is a lecturer of the Psychological Research Society of New York. As a psycho-analyst he has made studies of the faces of dead soldiers in France and has traveled extensively—living even among the New Zealand Maoris and Australian Bushmen in his research. Here is his detailed scientific analysis of a specially selected set of photos of Mme. Vera Botchkareva, commander of the Russian woman's "Battalion of Death."

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—What is the effect of war upon woman soldiers, and through them upon their children and civilization?

A close study of this greatest of women soldiers shows new strength and capacity, but not brutalization, for the quality of compassion seems if anything heightened by her war experience.

Vera Botchkareva, attempted, and carried out, the greatest war task ever men, and in the invitations issued Mr. Irving Farmer, secretary, states: "You are doubtless aware that the war has greatly enhanced the utility of the horse and that he is likely to be required to an increasing extent in civil as well as military pursuits. That the horsemen of the state may prepare to meet conditions now facing them it has been deemed wise to call this informal conference, irrespective of association membership."

War conditions have imposed an enormous drain upon the better classes of American horses. The allies have exported 1,500,000 of the best cavalry, artillery and transport-type horses, and are still buying all they can ship. Large numbers have been shipped from Canada and from South America, thus further reducing the available supply of the western world. The American army requires one horse or mule to every four men, irrespective of cavalry, and as Sir Eric Geddes, first lord of the British admiralty, declares that the war is going to be a long one, the demand upon America's resources will be enormous. These facts give special importance to the New York conference on Monday next. Horse breeding associations, throughout the United States, are showing a great interest in Red Star animal relief work for army horses, and are forming auxiliaries in many places.

Horses Save The Men

The soldiers' war wants are cared for by a number of agencies—chiefly the Red Cross; the animals, too, have a helping organization working along Red Cross lines, but known as the Red Star. The mission of the two is much the same—one benefits humans, the other benefits animals. What the Red Cross does for the soldier, the Red Star does for the war-horse.

The Red Star movement came into existence at an international convention in Geneva in 1914, its object being to bring about international cooperation in behalf of sick or wounded war animals and to secure the neutralization of those engaged in such work by international agreement.

The American Red Star came into existence in 1915 when, acknowledging that "all countries in time of war must depend to a large degree on the voluntary assistance of its citizens," Secretary of War Baker wrote to Dr. W. O. Stillman, president of the American Humane association, a letter in which he said:

"It is believed that plans similar in tenor to those of the Red Cross could be very advantageously adopted by your society for rendering organized aid to injured animals in time of war. If your society will undertake this work, the war department will be very glad to co-operate with you."

Facts About Horses

There are 4,500,000 horses engaged in this war.

On the western front, the losses have averaged 47,900 horses a month. In eight hours' fighting along a three-mile front at Verdun, the French lost 5,011 horses.

Over a million-and-a-half of America's horses have been purchased for service with the allies.

In the first seven months of 1917, the value of horses shipped to Europe from American ports was $25,327,333. For the month of July alone, the value was $1,477,202. Wastage of horses means an enormous money loss, which mere money cannot now replace. 33,000 horses have died in America while awaiting shipment, and 6,000 have died at sea in course of transit.

In nine weeks the British captured 322 German field and heavy guns and lost none. The German losses are partly due to lack of horses.

America, with an army of 2,000,000 men, will require 750,000 horses to begin with, and shipload after shipload to keep the force up to the strength. The total need will exceed a million a year under fighting conditions, and may even be vastly greater.

lip convey the impression of secret bitterness. Perhaps they have been developed since the outbreak of war.

The lines around the eyes denote a keen desire to dominate, but not with any selfish motive.

The lower lip denotes great confidence in her own ability, and shows the word "fear" means nothing to her and that she can endure great physical pain.

The firm chin means strength of will. The muscles of the throat and neck convey an idea of her sincerity of purpose, and also a keen sense of humor.

In many ways this woman might be compared with the illustrious Joan of Arc, although, unlike the great Joan, Vera Botchkareva is not merely a dreamer or idealist. She has much greater executive and organizing ability.

Joan's features are those of the individualist crusader; while this woman, sharing with her the personal bravery and above all, the complete self-sacrifice that dominated the French woman, is more valuable to her people because she combines with it obvious ability to think clearly and quickly and to command.

BAY STATE TO QUIT UNPROFITABLE LINES

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—The hearing on the petition of the Bay State Street Railway company for the establishment of a zone system was yesterday afternoon adjourned until Dec. 5 by the public service commission to give the representatives of the companies affected an opportunity to learn what the plan means and straighten out some complications that have arisen.

The request for a postponement was made by the company's attorney, Samuel H. Pillsbury and several of the local representatives. It was agreed further that at yesterday's session no evidence be presented regarding specific routes.

The company was permitted, however, to put in the remainder of its case. Robert S. Coff, general manager and vice president, was on the stand all the afternoon. He explained the economics which the road claims have been effected since the rate hearings of 1913-1915.

Has Already Saved $175,000
The road has already, he said, saved $175,000 a year, and, under questioning by Commissioner Eastman, he explained that it is still possible to increase this from $200,000 to $225,000 saving. Concentration of shop facilities and operation, he said, would bring this about.

Questioned as to the reports made by experts on the management, he said that they had justified the expenditure necessary to procure them. One of these reports, he went on, submitted by Captain Wheeler, suggested that the Bay State lines should all center in Chelsea and that the Boston

WIFE OF WAR BEATS WAY TO AMERICA

Tania Laubark, who "beat her way" from China to the United States.

Special to The Sun
SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 21.—Tania Laubark, 10-year-old Russian girl, wife of the war, reached the United States recently after "beating her way" across the Pacific from China.

Making friends by her childish initiative, and taking the freedom of the ship, she was discovered near the end of the voyage when a perplexed steward checked and rechecked his passenger lists to find out why an extra meal was being issued.

Kind-hearted Americans stood sponsor for her from then on, and when bound traffic should be handled in trains from that point.

The plan, he went on, provided for a $200,000 terminal, but, while it was seriously considered, it had been found impossible to finance the project.

Referring again to the matter of concentrating operations he said that several of the non-paying lines would probably be discontinued. The road had accepted the request of the lines involved before and had kept the lines in operation, he said, but the conclusion had been reached that there was no hope of adequate revenue being secured from them. As a result, it will be necessary to notify the people living along those lines that the company must adhere to its original intention and suspend operations.

"If you abandon the lines, you do not abandon the capital invested in them do you?" inquired Commissioner Eastman.

"No; not altogether," responded Mr. Coff. "Some of the rails and equipment could be put into other lines and the capital cared for in that way."

He said that the road's coal bill this year had jumped $250,000 over last year's, when $1,000,000 was expended. The average price for 1917, he went on, will be $8.10 a ton, and only recently it had been necessary to pay at the rate of $9.50 for 500 tons.

"It is not so much a question of she reached here she was smiling happily in the possession of a beautiful doll with yellow curls.

To an interpreter she said that she and her mother had left their home in Russia, crossing Siberia to China on the way to New York to find her father. The mother, she says, committed suicide in a Chinese city after hearing that her husband had remarried.

The girl then boarded a Pacific steamer and made her way to America.

Immigration officials are endeavoring to find some trace of her father before they permit her to travel to New York.

MAYOR DISTRIBUTES SUGAR
NEWBURYPORT, Nov. 21.—Mayor W. B. Hopkinson yesterday obtained 1500 pounds of sugar for distribution among the people of Newburyport, especially the sick and infirm.

He expects it today and will turn it over to William G. Fisher, who has just been appointed local merchants' representative of the food administration board, who will look after the distribution.

The price of the sugar has been fixed at 10 cents a pound and only two pounds will be allowed any family. Physicians are given 24 hours to make application in behalf of infants, infirm, people and invalids, who will have first consideration.

PUT A LAUGH IN SAMMY'S CHRISTMAS BOX

A laugh provoker with every box. That's what hundreds of California girls put into their Christmas gift packages sent to the Sammies at the front line in France.

The boxes contained smokes, candies, preserved fruits and articles bearing the personal touch of the donor. Each box also carries a snail's surprise.

This girl's package had a powder-puff, with the legend, "Don't let the French maids see you with a shiny nose."

Keep the boys smiling and joking," was the California girl's idea. "and you'll keep them fit as the world's finest soldiers."

ANOTHER PANEL FOR MURDER TRIAL

MINOLLA, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Four of the 12 jurors who are to pass on the guilt or innocence of Mrs. Bianca de Saules remained to be chosen when court convened today for the third day of her trial for the murder on Aug. 3 of her divorced husband, John L. de Saules.

Mrs. de Saules appeared to be cheered yesterday over the prospect of a visit to her from her four-and-a-half year old son, John L. de Saules, Jr.

Justice Manning suspended the trial yesterday in consultation regarding the boy. This ended in an agreement that the two visits a week of the boy to his mother should continue during the trial, but that he shall not take place in the courtroom.

Attorneys having been unable to find 12 men acceptable for jury service among 103 of the first panel, the veniremen examining, Justice Manning at noon ordered the drawing of another panel.

Of the men whose names remained on first list of talesmen, it was stated, about 30 were unavailable for service because of sickness or other reasons.

The original panel was exhausted early in the afternoon with two jurors remaining to be chosen and adjournment until tomorrow was taken to permit the assembly of other veniremen.

BRITISH VICTORY

forward in advance of the infantry when the attack was opened and broke through successive belts of German wire defenses which were of great depth and strength.

The announcement follows: "Yesterday morning the third army, under command of Gen. the Hon. Sir Julian Byng, delivered a number of attacks between St. Quentin and the river Scarpe. These attacks were carried out without previous artillery preparation and in each case the enemy was completely surprised.

"Our troops have broken into the enemy's positions to a depth of between four and five miles on a wide front, and have captured several thousand prisoners with a number of guns. Our operations are continuing.

"At the hour of assault on the principal front of attack a large number of tanks moved forward in advance of the infantry and broke through successive belts of German fire which were of great depth and strength.

"Following the capture of the village of Ribecourt and fought their way through Couilleul wood.

"Highland territorial battalions crossed the Great Ravine and captured Giesquiere, where fierce fighting took place. The West riding territorials captured Havrincourt and the German trench systems north of the village. The 1st and 2nd battalions of the latter's left flank moved northwards up the west bank of the canal du Nord.

"Later in the morning our advance was continued and rapid progress was made at all points. English, Scottish, Irish and Welsh battalions secured the crossings on the canal at Maunieres and captured the village of Avesnes. The West riding troops who had taken Havrincourt made remarkable progress east of the Canal du Nord, storming the villages of Graincourt and Avesnes.

"The number of prisoners, guns and material cannot yet be estimated.

"The spell of fine, dull weather which favored early preparations for our attack broke early yesterday. A heavy rain fell during the night and the weather is now stormy."

The British drive covers a part of the field of last year's offensive on the Somme and the sector south of Arras. The British centre in this thrust is nearest the German front. The important German base and railway centre from which the British line on the Bapaume-Cambrai road was about 100 miles distant at the end of several months past. The main force of the push just launched apparently is aimed at Cambrai along this road.

What is known as the Hindenburg line was established by the German command last spring when the famous "strategic retreat" on the Somme front was carried out. It was a supposedly impregnable barrier which had been in careful preparation. The British and French, however, snowed in the Arras battle last spring and in the French drive on the Aisne front that the line was by no means a bar to their progress but no definite breakthrough was permitted the penetration of a large force which would debouch for large field operations had ever been effected.

The British movement in its early phases gives the appearance of being the most ambitious that has been undertaken since the creation of their new armies gave them the power to strike effective blows. The attack came almost directly from the German front, since the creation of their new armies gave them the power to strike effective blows. The attack came almost directly from the German front, since the creation of their new armies gave them the power to strike effective blows.

There has been little speculation over the possibility of a British attack in force on the western front, this fall in any other form than a feint. The British secret service had knowledge of the weakening of the German front in the west.

Enemy masses alternate fierce artillery attacks with infantry assaults, which have been repulsed by the heroic bravery of the Italian troops. A. F. OF L. RE-AFFIRMS ITS LOYALTY TO NATION

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Without a dissenting vote, the American Federation of Labor yesterday reaffirmed its unswerving loyalty to the country and a determination to stand behind the national administration until peace comes.

The pacifist element, which yesterday mustered a small minority against Pres. Gompers' attitude in support of the war, was silent.

The resolution containing the declaration was reported favorably by the resolutions committee. It was sweeping in scope. The course pursued by Pres. Gompers in calling a conference of the national and international officers of the federation at Washington on March 12 was approved, and all his subsequent actions and those of the executive council with reference to the war were commended.

The pacifists declared that they were unaware that the resolution was to come up yesterday. They made no move for a reconsideration, however, and it was pointed out that while their fight yesterday was based on a vote of confidence in President Gompers, yesterday's resolution called for a declaration on a clear-cut question of loyalty to the country.

This resolution, with others from the committee on resolutions occupied practically the entire day.

Vice Pres. James Duncan reporting on his trip to Russia expressed confidence in the ultimate success of a stable and lasting republican government there.

"Give them an opportunity to develop their new democracy and there will be born in it a national spirit which will be worth fighting for," he said.

Gifford Pinchot, speaking for the federated board of farm organizations, asked for closer relations between the farm organizations and the American Federation of Labor. A committee was appointed to report on the possibility of action along this line.

The only resolution that caused extended debate related to the organization of negro labor. It was submitted by Delegate Murphy of San Francisco and embodied in its preamble a resolution adopted by the United Negro College league which specifically referred to the "Southern States" as the scenes of wrongs inflicted upon the race.

The resolutions committee assumed the responsibility for the statements and recommended reference to the executive council of only that part of it referring to organization of the negroes.

The Gorman of Georgia protested against the reference to the southern states remaining in the record and moved to strike out the entire section. Finally the report was amended by the resolution committee to read: "The committee cannot be responsible for and rejects the statements contained in the preamble of the resolution," and as so amended the report was adopted.

STOCK MARKET RESPONDS TO BRITISH VICTORY

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The stock market made a vigorous and unmistakable response today to the news of the British victory along the Hindenburg line. Leading shares rose 2 to 5 points after an early period of hesitation, rails and industrials participating in almost equal measure.

The strength of rails was attributed to a growing confidence in the announcement of increased freight rates and a satisfactory adjustment of labor conditions.

The many friends of Mrs. Pierre Dupuis of 77 Austin street, this city, will be grieved to learn of her death which occurred yesterday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Eva Bonin, in Haverhill, after an illness of three days.

Mrs. Dupuis had been in Haverhill for the past week as the guest of her sister and was about to board an electric car for Lowell Saturday when she was stricken with paralysis. She was removed to the home of her sister, but failed to rally and yesterday morning passed away. Deceased was aged 52 years, 6 months and 14 days and is survived by her husband, a son, Eugene; two daughters, Eva and Emma; a sister in Haverhill and a brother in Boston. She was a member of the Third Order of St. Francis of St. Joseph's parish. The body was removed to the home in this city by Undertakers Joseph Albert & Son.

BRITISH PUSHING FORWARD

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Despite the continuation of the British offensive, the British battalions of the British troops and tanks were still pushing forward today, Reuters correspondent at headquarters reported.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

BRITISH TANKS SMASH HINDENBURG LINE

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Nov. 20 (By The Associated Press).—The redoubtable Hindenburg line in the Cambrai sector was broken in many places today by the great force of the British tanks, and this afternoon the infantry which followed through the gaps was still battling its way forward.

The surprise attack was launched at dawn over a wide front. In the first few hours its progress was marked with evident success, and up to the latest reports received at this time (4 p. m.) it had been moving along regularly according to schedule.

The resistance offered by the dazed Germans this morning was negligible, and by noon British pioneers already were at work laying roads across the old front line trenches while prisoners in considerable numbers had begun to come back from various directions.

The casualties of the attacking forces thus far have been light. Great numbers of German dead lie before the main Hindenburg trenches where the bewildered enemy taken unaware, made a half-hearted attempt to stem the onrushing Britons.

The battle was an innovation for the western front, for it was begun without any preliminary work. Upon the army tanks rested the responsibility for victory or defeat, and they fulfilled all expectations.

The tanks started forward at 6.20 o'clock and by 11.30 the British infantry, which had swarmed into the holes made by the mighty engines, was engaging the enemy in open fighting along the Hindenburg support line back of the main defenses at many points. Up to noon there had been no hard fighting and the German artillery fire had been very weak.

The Germans surrendered freely in numerous places and several hundred were brought in during the first few hours of fighting.

Two attempted counter-attacks were smashed by the British infantry in the early hours, one in a tunnel trench near Bullecourt, the other at Havrincourt Park, where one company of Germans essayed an advance.

The tanks this afternoon, followed by infantry, were continuing their journey into German territory. Prisoners admit ruefully that the attack was a surprise to them and caught many of them in their dugouts.

10,000 TONS OF SUGAR SEIZED

Rolph today. It will be placed upon the market immediately and will be distributed to retailers by the American Refiners Sugar committee.

The sugar was bought for the government of former Emperor Nicholas by the Marine Transportation Service corporation. After the overthrow of the Russian dynasty there was no claimant for the sugar. Yesterday the transportation corporation attached it as part of the personal property here of Nicholas Romanoff, the deposed sovereign, in a suit to recover $2,000,000 for alleged breach of contract.

THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Recessions of a point or more in leaders like U. S. Steel, Marine, Union Pacific and Canadian Pacific caused a moderate setback at the opening of today's stock market. General News also denoted further pressure, losing almost two points. Equipments parted with some of the previous day's gains, likewise copper. Advances of fractions to a point were mostly in reply to speculative specialties. Liberty 4s and 3-1/2s held firm.

Led by Pennsylvania, which dropped 1-1/2 points to the new minimum of 95, the list yielded lower in the first hour. Other rails extended initial reversals with steels, coppers, shippings and autos. Offsetting features included issues of a more speculative character, notably Alcohol, Distillers, Central Leather and Hide and Leather pf. Prices strengthened substantially later in the day, coinciding with the encouraging British report, but Italian exchange recorded a further collapse. Liberty 4s sold between 97.80 and 98.85, the 3-1/2s ranging from 95 to 95.12.

Industrials and rails moved materially higher in the afternoon. United States Steel made an extreme advance of 3-3/4 points to 101-3/4. Deere & Hudson rallied a Canadian Pacific 3 and Pennsylvania 1-1/2. Coppers and shippings also improved.

Gains were irregularly reduced by profit-taking in the last hour. The closing was strong. Liberty 4s varied from 97.80 to 98.20 and the 3-1/2s from 99 to 99.12.

STORM CHURCH FOR SUGAR

HIDDEFORD, Me., Nov. 21.—When it became known about town today that the ladies of the Second Congregational church, who were serving dinner at the church vestry, were including sugar in the menu, so great was the rush of customers to get a bit of the sweet that the vestry doors had to be locked and prospective patrons allowed to enter in batches. The presence of the sugar is accounted for by the fact that it was some left over from a former supper some months ago. It is understood that should any remain following the conclusion of the present dinner it will be placed in the parish safe by the pastor for safe keeping.

HEATED DEBATE ON ALIEN DRAFT

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 21.—The favorable report today of a resolution calling for the conscription of citizens of the allied nations in this country brought on one of the most heated debates of the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor. It reached a climax when Thomas Black, a Canadian delegate who characterized conscription labor laws as "damnable legislation" was called upon to retract or leave the floor of the convention.

The committee's report endorsing the resolution was adopted by a vote of 344 to 20 amid a storm of cheers but not until a large number of the delegates and President Gompers had replied to Black and Delegate Cary from Toronto, Ont., had declared that Black's statement was not representative of the sentiment of Canadian trades union men.

The demand for a retraction from Black was not put in the form of a motion and the matter was dropped after the adoption of the committee report.

An attempt by socialist delegates to single out Postmaster General Burleson for attack in connection with the suppression of certain newspapers has been blocked by the resolutions committee.

The committee also reported non-concurrence in a resolution calling upon the president of the United States to appoint representatives of organized labor to attend any conference that may be held between the United States and Germany in connection with the adoption of the committee's adverse report without debate.

and with 7769 votes. Mr. Charbonneau received 3039, while the fourth nominee, Dr. Thompson, was given 3841 votes.

Shortly after 8 o'clock last evening the corridor leading to the city clerk's office at city hall was jammed with people, while the spare floor in the office of the clerk was crowded with men who were anxious to hear news of their respective favorites. The first return was received at 8:15 o'clock and from that time until the last precinct was heard from the tabulators and newspapermen were kept very busy, for returns came pouring in faster than they could be handled. Owing to a clerical error in the vote received by Mr. Thompson, however, it was not until after midnight that the official report of the election was given out by the city clerk.

The vote by precincts was as follows:

CLEMENCEAU'S WAR AIMS IS TO BE A VICTOR

PARIS, Nov. 20.—The war aim of Premier Clemenceau is to be a victor, he told the chamber of deputies today. The chamber last evening gave a vote of confidence to M. Clemenceau, 418 to 65.

"If Germany tomorrow expressed a wish to enter into the society of nations, I would not agree," M. Clemenceau said. "Germany's signature cannot be trusted."

"You ask what my war aims are? My aim is to be a victor."

During interpellations after the ministerial declaration Deputy Plerre Forget demanded the firm handling of the political scandals. He declared that Louis J. Malvy, former minister of the interior, either is a traitor or that Leon Daudet, Malvy's successor, is a scoundrel. He demanded that the corruption with the scandals of Joseph Caillaux, the former premier, should be made clear.

Premier Clemenceau made an appearing gesture and M. Caillaux applauded but the premier in reply refused to enter into details. He assured the chamber that justice would be dealt rapidly and relentlessly for crimes against the country.

The premier expressed sympathy with the socialists and idealists but declared that experiments were impossible in war time. He turned the laugh on some of his interrupters by saying that the only advantage of old age is that one becomes deaf.

Premier Clemenceau read to the chamber of deputies yesterday afternoon the ministerial declaration which had been decided upon by the new cabinet. In the senate the document was read by Louis Nail, the minister of justice. The declaration says:

"We have accepted places in the government in order to conduct the war with redoubled effort, for the better application of all our energies. We came before you with the sole idea of an integral war."

"We have great soldiers, of great traditions, under leaders tempered by trials and animated by that supreme devotion which gave their elders renown. Those Frenchmen that we were constrained to throw into the battle have clung upon us. We owe them everything, without any reserve—everything for France, bleeding in her glory, everything for the exaltation of our triumph."

"The single, simple duty is to stand by the soldier; live, suffer and fight for him; renounce everything that is not of the fatherland. The hour has come for us to be solely French, and with the pride to declare that that suffices for us. Let every zone be the zone of war. If there must be men who find in their soul impulses of the old time, let us put them aside."

"All civilized nations are engaged in the same battle against the modern development of ancient barbarity. Against this, with all our good allies, we are an invincible rock, a barrier that shall not be passed."

Must Prove Love For France

"Those silent soldiers of the workshops, deaf to evil suggestions; these old peasants bent over their land; those robust women at their looms; those children who bring them aid—these are our 'patriot'; there are our allies who, thinking later on of the great work, may say like those of the trenches, 'I was in it.'"

"With those also we must remain steadfast. We must see to it that, stripping ourselves for the fatherland, we one day may be loved. To love each other! It is not sufficient to say so, we must prove it."

"There have been mistakes. Let us think only of repairing them. Alas! there have been crimes also, crimes against France. Let them receive prompt chastisement. Too many criminal attempts have already resulted from our battle front in the shedding of a superabundance of French blood. All the accused before court-martial—that is our policy."

"War, Nothing But War!"

"No more pacifist campaigns; no more German intrigues; neither treason nor semi-treason! War, nothing but war! Our armies shall not be taken between two fires. Justice is on the way."

"A censorship shall be maintained for diplomatic and military information, as well as for those susceptible of disturbing peace at home, up to the limits of respect for opinions. A press bureau will give advice, nothing but advice, to all who solicit it."

"We are going to enter upon a regime of restoration after the example of England, Italy and America, admirable in her ardor. We shall ask of each citizen that he take his full part in the common defense, that he give more and consent to receive less."

"Some day, from Paris to the humblest village, shouts of acclamation will greet our victorious armies, stained with blood and tears and torn by shells, magnificent apparition of our noble dead! That day, the greatest day of our race, after so many other days of grandeur, it is in our power to bring forth."

Prem. Clemenceau read his declaration in firm, clear voice. When he spoke of France's debt to the dead his emotion was evidenced by the trembling of the sheets in his hand. His peroration was acclaimed by the whole chamber with the exception of certain united socialists.

Three deputies of the right later urged interpretations of the words which are now being investigated.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN THE POLICE COURT

Joseph A. Rice and Arthur J. King, who were arrested last week on complaint of larceny of clothing from the state infirmary at Tewksbury, where they had been employed as attendants, came up on continuance today, and it was shown that Rice had been arrested for breaking and entering in Suffolk county in 1912 and placed on probation, while King is in reality Thomas McLaughlin, who has traveled under many aliases and among the offenses he had committed was that of highway robbery, for which he was given from not less than two and one-half years and not more than four years in state prison and was placed on parole on September 25, 1915.

Rice's sister pleaded for him and the court imposed a fine of $25 and ordered him to make restitution of $22. King, or McLaughlin, was continued for one week from today, he being held under $500 bonds for his appearance at that time.

According to the story told in police court last week, Rice and King were employed as attendants at the state infirmary and being short of money, purloined some clothing and sold it to a second hand clothing dealer in Dutton street for which they received $6, but subsequently the dealer secured $3 of his money.

The goods were recovered by the police and both men were placed under arrest. When arraigned in court last week, Rice gave his correct name, but King did not, according to the police.

Assault and Battery

Donat Mignault was charged with assault and battery on Eugene Provost and entered a plea of guilty. It appears that the pair got into a dispute over the question of going to war and Mignault gave Provost several punches, which resulted in the latter having a pair of discolored eyes when he appeared in court this morning. Mignault was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $10.

The case of Panegatis Goulas, charged with neglect of wife, was continued until Saturday. The case of Sidney Bernstein, charged with the larceny of an automobile from Abram Mohamed, was called, but by request of counsel was continued until November 28. It is alleged that Bernstein was the driver of the automobile which figured in the robbery of several hundred dollars from Harry C. Kittredge.

The case of Michael Gross, charged with keeping a gaming nuisance, was continued until November 28. Patrick J. Cleary, charged with being drunk, entered a plea of guilty. He was arrested by Patrolman O'Neil and Killoy, who testified that he was purchasing liquor for soldiers. Cleary was sentenced to two months in jail.

Edward B. Scott, charged with being drunk, was ordered to pay a fine of $10.

LOWELL MAN CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Special to The Sun
EAST CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 21.—Edmond Briere of Lowell was arraigned before Judge Chase in the criminal session of the superior court in Cambridge today on complaints charging him with forgery and larceny and manslaughter. He pleaded guilty to forgery and larceny, and not guilty to manslaughter. He also pleaded not guilty to wrecklessly operating a motorcycle and operating a motorcycle without a license. On the case to which he pleaded guilty he was sentenced to six months in the Lowell jail. No action was taken on the charge of manslaughter. The story of the motorcycle accident responsible for the charge was told by Officer Breault. The scene of the accident was Hall and Tucker streets in Lowell, and the time was 2 p. m. Aug. 22. It is claimed that Briere and a companion, the above date at Willow Dale took a motorcycle, the property of a friend, and operated the machine to Lowell with Briere at the handle bars. When the corner of Tucker and Hall streets was reached Briere lost control of the cycle with the result that it crashed into a step where were seated several children, among whom was a little girl named Caron. Four of the children were slightly injured, while the Caron girl received injuries which proved fatal. A woman who was walking on the sidewalk near the scene of the accident was also slightly injured, while the motorcycle was badly damaged. Briere was later arrested and held for the grand jury.

RED TRIANGLE CAMPAIGN MANAGER LEFT FOR WASHINGTON LAST EVENING

Otto Hoekmeyer, general manager of the Red Triangle campaign in Lowell, left for Washington last evening for a short trip. The purpose of the journey was not divulged but it was stated that it was not in connection with the Triangle campaign.

C. E. Harvey, treasurer of the campaign, stated to a Sun representative this noon that a number of new subscriptions had been received since yesterday but that tabulations were not yet of a sufficiently definite nature to warrant changing the present figures of the grand total to date—$170,000. Your business may be placed before the people as an offer, and results will follow if you will but class yourself with the successful merchants and use the advertising columns of The Sun, Lowell's Greatest Newspaper.

An alarm from box 38 at 12:25 o'clock this morning was for a fire in the Doherty Bros. foundry in Payne street. The fire had its inception in the vicinity of the furnace, but was extinguished before much damage was done.

Miss Nellie Corcoran was tendered a birthday and surprise party recently at the home of Mrs. A. A. Tobey, 75 Westford street, and in the course of the reception Miss Corcoran received many valuable gifts. A musical program was carried out and refreshments served.

Any of you Lowell people who happen to land "somewhere in Camp Devens" in the near future looking for some friend or relative and find yourselves unable to locate the desired individual, need not call it a losing job if you will but hunt up the Knights of Columbus hut on the main road of the continent and ask for Assistant Secretary John P. Seamon. Mr. Seamon is a Lowell man, who has recently been appointed to the important position at the big continent and he will be glad to straighten out any tangles at the camp for Lowell men and women. An appointment was announced only recently from Washington and his many friends will congratulate him on his success.

TWO INQUESTS

Inquests into the deaths of James McGuigan and an unknown man were held before Judge Fisher in the court of second sessions this morning.

The unknown man was found one and one-half miles east of the Baldwin station in Tewksbury, on November 10.

James McGuigan was killed in an automobile accident at the Tyngsboro bridge on the same date.

BARN AND CONTENTS BURNED AT BILLERICA—LOSS ESTIMATED AT $4000

A barn at Mason's corner, near Pinehurst park, in Billerica, 40 by 80 feet, owned by Benjamin Moore of Boston, was burned last night with its contents, consisting of 75 tons of hay and a large stock of farming implements.

Mr. Moore has a summer home here, and the house is only about 150 feet from the barn. The wind, however, blew the flames in the opposite direction.

The fire was discovered by neighbors after it was well under way, and by the time the fire department arrived, the barn was doomed. The loss is estimated at about $4000. The blaze was seen at Woburn and many adjacent places.

Hawaii is the only place under United States control where the humble cent is not used. However, now that the war tax is effective, it is expected that the much despised cent will become popular in Honolulu, although some of the merchants do not believe that it will ever be able to cross 2000 miles of the Pacific.

TEMPORARY SHORTAGE OF SALT AND MATCHES IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—New York city today faces a temporary shortage of salt and matches. During the past week, as the result of widespread rumors that there was to be a shortage of these commodities, panicky housewives have purchased and hoarded nearly all the available supplies. Leading members of the trade say there is no danger of the shortage lasting more than a few days. The problem is said to be simply one of transportation.

James Frank Kendall, aged 80, of Worcester has gathered and sold $30 worth of chestnuts this season.
